Wool Men Accused of Hiding Profits

$350,000 IN INCOME HIDDEN?

Bookkeeper Charges English & O'Brien Kept an Extra Set of Accounts

William A. English and John H. O'Brien, of the firm of English & O'Brien, Inc., wool merchants, at No. 275 Congress street, were held in $25,000 bail each by Judge Morton in the United States District Court today on charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States in the firm's income tax return.

They were recently secretly indicted by the Federal grand jury. Both pleaded not guilty and furnished the heavy bail required.

This was the first instance in this Federal district of prosecution for alleged fraud in income tax returns.

According to information to the government from Lucius W. Pond, bookkeeper for English & O'Brien up to last April, he was instructed to open a new set of books and to figure the firm's profits for 1917 at $250,000, whereas the income for that year was $600,000.

SAY $350,000 WAS HIDDEN.

According to these figures the alleged fraudulent tax return set the firm's income for 1917 at $350,000 less than it really was.

Federal investigators even intimated that this figure might go as high as a round million.

The government has served six trustee writs on banks and two attachments on real estate, property of the defendants.

Up to March 15, the concern was known as English & O'Brien. On that date the company was transferred to a corporation, English & O'Brien, Inc.

Assistant United States District Attorney Francis G. Geodale recently applied to the Federal commissioner for a search warrant in the case.

ACCUSED BY ACCOUNTANT.

The application was based upon information obtained, according to the Federal authorities, from a statement made by Pond, the former bookkeeper. He had been employed by the firm four years and by the corporation about a fortnight. His connection with them ceased on April 3.

TELLS OF NEW BOOKS OPENED.

Mr. Pond declared that John H. O'Brien told him that some new books would have to be devised to conceal withdrawals from the regular books of the firm.

"I suggested," Mr. Pond said, "that a new cash book and general ledger

Family Sent French to Ranch as Cure for Cafe Life

Edward Tuck French and his adventures in the field of love and romance.

That is the absorbing narrative given to the Boston AMERICAN by "Ned" French himself.

The story of the elopement and marriage of Mr. French, son of Amos Tuck French, the Newport and New York millionaire, with Miss Lillian M. Harrington, the fair Manchester, N. H., telephone operator, has held public attention for the past few days. The separation of the bridal pair, their rapid reconciliation and second separation have only added interest to the episode.

"Ned" French, as he tells in his present narrative, has known girls of many grades, English princesses, American society damsels of the most exclusive set, vivacious chorus girls and working girls. He elected to wed a working girl, whom he dearly loves.

In his opening instalment yesterday he told of meeting a Brookline girl on his trip abroad, of his father's opposition to their romance, of a clandestine appointment with her at Cardiff, Wales, and of their parting when the war began in August, 1914. He then plunged into London society life, met royalty and members of the peerage, and was the guest of his aunt and uncle, Lord and Lady Cheylesmore, at Cooper's Hill. Lord Cheylesmore is presiding in London today at the trial of Corporal Dowling for treason.

Nothing could console me for the absence of the girl, not even my family, who, at that time, were very sympathetic. They thought that the young lady had disappeared forever.

However, she returned and once again, till August 21, when my father secured passage on the R. M. S. Olympic to return to this counutry, we saw each other daily.

REPORT 35 DEAD IN WRECK NEAR NASHVILLE

Two Fast Trains on Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Road in Fatal Collision

Nashville, Tenn., July 9.—The worst disaster in the history of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway occurred this morning at 7:15 o'clock, when passenger train No. 1 from Memphis and St. Louis and passenger train No. 4, bound for Memphis, collided near Nashville and Bellmeade Park, on Dutchman's Grade, destroying both engines and demolishing six coaches, crowded with passengers.

Reports from the collision and from the various hospitals indicate that the casualties will be large. Newspaper estimates, hurriedly made, placed the dead at 35 and the injured at as high as 75. From hospital reports the figures may be too low. Many of the casualties were among negroes. Few women and children were injured. The Pullman cars escaped serious damage.

The cause of the collision has not yet been established.

4 ON TRIAL FOR BLOWING UP BATTLESHIP

Three Italian Sailors and Soldier Accused as Traitors for German Gold

Rome, July 9. — Three Italian sailors and an army private were arraigned for trial here today on a charge of blowing up the Italian battleship Benedetto-Prin, which was sunk in Brindisi harbor in September, 1915. The prosecution contends that the vessel was destroyed by bombs planted in a gun room.

The bombs are alleged to have been supplied to the culprits by German agents in Venice. Evidence tending to show that the destruction of the warship cost the German government $16,000 was introduced. Cesare Morlitti, who was among the defendants originally, has turned State's evidence.

The Benedetto-Prin was a vessel of 13,215 tons displacement. Four hundred and fifty-six officers and men of her crew were killed in the explosion.

The defendants are Private Carpi and Sailors Partellini, Cavabuy and Assoni.

300,000 AUSTRIANS DESERT

Deputy Admits Loss of Vast Forces, Many Fleeing Through Rumania

Rome, July 9.—The Austro-Hungarians lost 20,000 men between July 2 and 6, or one-half of the men engaged, the War Office announces.

By International News Service.

London, July 9.—The Austrian army command has refused to accept a German generalissimo to direct the Austro-Hungarians in Italy, said a Rome wireless dispatch today.

It was reported from a Swiss source yesterday that Germany would lend three army corps to Austria and that Von Ludendorff would direct a double drive simultaneously, one on the Italian front, the other on the western front.

By International News Service.

Paris, July 9.—More than 300,000 Austro-Hungarian soldiers have deserted since the beginning of the war, according to a statement made by Austrian Deputy Ugron from Temsvar and confirmed by the Austro-Hungarian supreme command.

One hundred and fifty thousand, for the most part Czechs, gave themselves up voluntarily at the first opportunity to the Russians, Serbians, Rumanians and Italians.

Almost 150,000 Hungarian soldiers escaped through Rumania between August, 1914, and June, 1916.

In his report Deputy Ugron said:

"Every time that a unit of our army which is constituted of or commanded by non-Magyars or non-Germans finds itself face to face with the enemy, it surrenders. The high command has endeavored to improve matters by resorting to the strictest disciplinary measures, but without the slightest avail."

"Shame on all traitors to the national cause," is the concluding passage of Dr. Ugron's exposure of conditions in the Austro-Hungarian armies.

Hungarian Deputies Protest Annihilation of Magyar Regiments

Berne, July 9.—Hungarian deputies are bitterly protesting against the annihilation of whole Hungarian regiments in the recent Austro-Hungarian offensive on the Piave, alleging that Austrian generals were spilling Magyar blood wantonly in battle movements apparently doomed to failure.

Press dispatches reaching here from the Dual Monarchy state that the deputies rose in the Hungarian Parliament and openly pointed out that of the hundred thousand men lost in the Italian offensive, the greater number were Hungarians. Five Magyar regiments, they asserted, were wiped out. They laid the blame to the Austrian General Staff.

KERENSKY LEADERS SEIZED

Former Russian Cabinet Members Arrested; Germans Are Marching on Moscow

Stockholm, July 9.—M. Skobeleff, former Russian Minister of Labor; M. Tcheronoff, former Minister of Agriculture, and M. Tereteiff, former minister of posts and telegraphs, and other members of the Kerensky cabinet have been arrested by the Bolsheviki authorities, says a dispatch received here today from Moscow. The arrests were made at the instance of Premier Lenine. The nature of the charges was not stated.

London, July 9.—Newspapers in neutral countries today print dispatches showing that German forces are 300 miles west of Moscow and intimating that the Germans are marching on that city. According to these dispatches the Germans are being heavily reinforced. German newspapers are reported to be preparing the people for a radical move to punish Russia for the murder of Mirbach.

Basle, July 9.—Martial law has been proclaimed at Moscow. Advices received here today stated that the Russian social revolutionaries have confessed the plot to murder Count von Mirbach, the German ambassador to Russia, in order to annul the Brest-Litovsk treaty.

Washington, July 9.—Officials at the Navy Department admit that the situation of the American, British and French marines that have been landed at Murmansk is a precarious one. German officers with German units operating with the Finnish White Guards, are directing the movement to cut the Murmansk Railroad.

Success in this could not only prevent the movement into the interior

The United States Government through the War Industries Board has issued the following:

"On account of the shortage of materials, the question of the supply of paper is becoming acute and the use of paper must be economized to the greatest possible extent.

"It is necessary that all newspapers which publish a daily and weekly edition put the following preliminary economies into effect July 15, 1918:

"Discontinue the acceptance of the return of unsold copies.

"Discontinue the use of all samples or free promotion copies.

"Discontinue giving copies to anybody except for office working copies or where required by statute law in the case of official advertising.

"Discontinue giving free copies to advertisers except not more than one copy each for checking purposes.

"Discontinue the arbitrary forcing of copies on newsdealers (i. e., compelling them to buy more copies than they can legitimately sell in order to hold certain territory).

"Discontinue the buying back of papers, at either wholesale or retail selling price, from dealers or agents, in order to secure preferential representation.

"Discontinue the payment of salaries or commissions to agents, dealers or newsboys for the purpose of securing the equivalent of return privileges.

"Discontinue all free exchanges."

All the Boston newspapers will of course conform to the above ruling.

Vladivostok Is Quiet After the Czecho-Slovak Victory Over Bolsheviki

By International News Service.

Washington, July 9.—The American Consul at Vladivostok reported today that the city was quiet, and that there had been no disorder there since June 29.

The number killed in the fighting was small, he stated, but it has been found impossible to determine the exact number.

His best information is that the Czecho-Slovak forces, who are reported to have overthrown the Bolshevik government in the fighting, lost four killed and twenty-one wounded.

The report adds that newspaper dispatches say that sixty of the Red Guard were killed, "including an uncertain number of Hungarians."

Heavy Artillery Fire and German Air Activity Are Reported by Pershing

By International News Service.

Washington, July 9.—There have been no fresh developments at the points occupied by American troops, General Pershing reports in his communique of July 8, made public by the War Department this afternoon.

Brisk artillery activity on the Picardy front on July 4 and 5 is noted. In the Mulhouse sector, on July 5, German airplanes were unusually active, the communique adds.

Count von Mirbach Slain at 3 O'Clock, Saturday, Consul Reports

Washington, July 8.—The murder of Count von Mirbach, German Ambassador to Russia, is confirmed in a consular dispatch received by the State Department from Archangel today. It states that the assassination occurred at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and adds that street fighting in Moscow is progressing.

Other reports reaching the State Department tell of the arrest of Bolshevik leaders by Social Revolutionists.

Time Ripe for Separate Discussion of Peace, Says George Bernhard

Copenhagen, July 9.—"The time is ripe to discuss peace on the basis of reasonable disarmament through separate negotiations instead of at a round table," says George Bernhard in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, said a dispatch from that city today.

Bernhard's terms call for a restoration of Germany's colonies, a mercantile agreement with England, the restoration of occupied districts in Persia and recognition of the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty between the Russian Bolsheviki and the Central Powers.

Bernhard said he would agree to President Wilson's policy of "self determination if applied to India and Ireland."

should be duplicates of the corresponding books theretofore in use, except that all items of withdrawals for the personal accounts of the partners should be charged proportionately to the various items of expenses of said firm.

"Mr. O'Brien instructed me to purchase such books, which I did. During the middle of February, 1918, Mr. O'Brien handed me a slip with the following in writing:

"'Firm's profits $250,000 from January 1, 1917, to December 31, 1917, the profits to include house and E. & O'B. stories.'

"On November 10, 1917, Mr. O'Brien directed me to transfer items in books which were entered combings expenses, for the combing of wool purchased by said firm, which I did."

ACCOUNTS WERE SEIZED.

According to the statement made by Mr. Pond before the commissioner, the interest of a sum greatly in excess of $600,000, which was in fact the income of the firm for 1917, was made to appear less than $200,000.

Search of the office failed to reveal anything out of the ordinary. Later Judge Dodge gave United States District Attorney Boynton and Mr. Goodale permission to have the books audited by an expert. The books were then restored to the firm.

On June 24 United States Marshal Mitchell, acting in conjunction with the Department of Justice, seized the firm's books at the offices of its attorneys, Warner, Stackpole & Bradley.

The firm sought return of the books, but Judge Dodge decided against it. These hearings took place behind closed doors. While the hearings were in process the new Grand Jury summoned witnesses and returned indictments against the partners.

Today's War Summary

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

The French are steadily wiping out the gains which the Germans made in their latest offensive between Montdidier and the Aisne river, which began on June 9 and collapsed shortly afterward.

Another slice of German-held territory northwest of Compiegne was taken by the French early today when they attacked over a front of two and a half miles, advancing to a depth of 1,800 yards, capturing two fortified farms and 450 prisoners.

This was only one of a series of successful operations that the French have been carrying out in that area during the past fortnight.

On the British front the Australians have been slowly advancing their lines, following the initial gain on the Fourth of July, when Australian and American troops threw t heGermans out of Hamel and adjacent pieces of wooded ground.

If, as some European war critics think, the next big German effort will be to push along the Somme valley towards Abbeville, the Teutons will find their way blocked by very strong positions, thanks to the successes of the British colonials during the fighting of the past week.

There have been no further decisive developments on the Italian front, but much interest is now being directed toward the Balkan theatre of war, where the allies have organized some strong offensive operations.

The Austrian War Office admits a withdrawal "from some advanced positions."

As a result of the turbulent conditions in Russia it is impossible to tell what will be the outcome of the counter revolutionary movement. It is apparently growing in volume, especially in the Moscow district.

Want Paint to Hide Gold of State House Dome

Any young man who has got a paint solution that won't take the gold off the State House dome can win some fame and some money for himself.

When the German subs were off the coast a few weeks ago, the State House Commission voted to camouflage the dome, which, they said, offered a fine target for the ruthless Hun.

Paint experts, however, are fearful that any paint known will take off the 14-carat gold when the time comes to restore the dome to its golden brilliancy.

Note: Letters addressed to Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas F. Fedrick, Room 200, State House, will reach the State House Commission.

U. S. TO BUILD 92 TRANSPORTS FOR TROOPS

By International News Service.

Washington, July 9.—Ninety-two transports, of 12,000 tons each, are a part of the Shipping Board's program, it was learned today.

Actual construction has been started on a large number, and it is planned to have the last of them take the water a year from this Fall. They are being so constructed that they will be available as passenger ships and as giant merchantmen after the war.

Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, discussing the ship situation at the White House today was extremely optimistic. American shipyards are putting ships into the water faster than boilers can be secured, he asserted, and the average efficiency of the yards has been increased 40 per cent.

PLAN MIGHTY PLEA FOR SUFFRAGE AT COMMON MASS MEETING

THOUSANDS JOIN IN BIG RALLY FOR ANTHONY AMENDMENT

Plans for the big patriotic suffrage demonstration on Boston Common, which will take place at noon on Saturday, July 13, today went forward with dispatch.

Replies to telegrams sent out to national figures in the American suffrage movement indicated that at least one speaker of national reputation would be present to address the meeting. Who this speaker will be is conditioned upon unforeseen circumstances which may arise between now and Saturday's meeting.

The name of Congressman Aiven T. Fuller of Malden heads the list of speakers secured since yesterday. In addition to ex-Governor John L. Bates, Attorney James H. Vahey, and Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, former president of the Massachusetts Women's Suffrage Association, all of whom are on the program—the following well-known Boston equal suffragists will speak:

Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans of Brookline, former member of the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Board, and Mrs. Winona Osborne Pinkham, and Mrs. Winona Osborne Pinkham, executive secretary of the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government.

CONCERT PRECEDES MEETING.

The meetings is expected to eclipse anything of its kind ever held in Boston. Thousands of ardent supporters of President Wilson's equal suffrage sentiments are looked for on that occasion.

Commencing at the Parkman Bandstand at 12 o'clock, noon, there will be a short band concert by the Boston City Band, William E. Cornell conductor. The speaking will commence promptly at 12:15.

The purpose of the meeting is to crystallize the wide-spread sentiment in favor of the immediate passage by the National Senate of the so-called Susan B. Anthony amendment providing for the complete enfranchisement of women throughout the United States. Following the passage of the amendment by the National Senate, ratification by the Senate, all that remains to receive the ratification of thirty-six States in the Union to become settled law.

Resolutions urging the Senate to take immediate action on the amendment will be presented to the meeting, and the thousands of people in line, and the thousands more in attendance will be asked to express their endorsement of the measure and the Senators of other States urging favorable action.

In addition to the thousands of signatures already obtained to the scroll calling upon President Wilson to use the request of President Wilson to pass the amendment as an act of justice and right to the women of America, those who have not already done so will be asked to sign petitions as they will be asked to sign petitions as they march upon yards of closely written signatures, will be forwarded to the clerk of the Senate as a part of the petition and become a part of the permanent record of the forty-second Congress for the women of the United States.

QUICK ACTION DEMANDED.

Indorsement of Saturday's mass meeting is expected at a meeting later today of the executive board of the Massachusetts Branch of the Na- tional Woman's Party, which meets at No. 5 Park street. The big demonstration already has the enthusiastic support and co-operation of prominent Massachusetts suffragists, including the list of speakers and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, acting chairman of the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association.

Telegrams inviting Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Miss Alice Paul, Mrs. Maud Wood Park, Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, Congressman Jeanette Rankin of Montana, and members of the Massachusetts delegation of Congressmen and Senators in Washington, have been sent out and replies are momentarily expected.

Whole-hearted indorsement of the plan to persuade the Senate to pass the Susan B. Anthony amendment at once is contained in many letters and telegrams received by the ADVERTISER and other Hearst papers throughout the nation. The demand that no further delay be tolerated in the handling of this important measure is sweeping the country, and the patience of the more ardent suffragists who have worked long and faithfully for the passage of this amendment is severely strained by the continued delay.

Saturday's monster mass meeting will serve to bring the magnitude of the issue to the attention of the State and to Washington know that the people of Greater Boston are solidly behind the President in their demand for the passage of the measure before Congress adjourns the present session.

Some of the opinions of representative New Englanders who endorse the proposition are as follows:

FREDERICK W. MANSFIELD, former State Treasurer—I believe that women should have the vote and heartily approve the campaign begun by the Hearst papers to win it for them. The women deserve the ballot, and if they ought to have it, why delay it to them? This, it seems to me, is the time to act. I am thoroughly in favor of equal suffrage and always have been. The measure before the Senate is a very simple bill, that does not require any deep researches or long consideration, and should be adopted as a measure of justice.

WILLIAM R. PATTANGALL, ex-Attorney-General of Maine—There is no good reason why the United States Senate should not act promptly and favorably on the resolution now before it providing for equal suffrage for women. It is apparent that there are sufficient demands for this proposition to warrant Congress placing the matter before the State Legislatures for action. With both of the great national political parties declaring in favor of suffrage, the President in favor of it, the House of Representatives in favor of it, and strong pressure being brought in its behalf from very many unofficial sources, it seemsp very absurd that the efforts of a small minority of the United States Senate should prevent action on the matter.

England and Canada have granted suffrage as a war measure. For the United States to limit the right of suffrage more conservatively than it is limited in other English-speaking countries is contrary to our traditions and places our government in a false position at a time when its people are making every sacrifice for the purpose of promoting and widening democracy.

The Senate ought to act at once and every progressive Legislature in the United States should promptly ratify the amendment.

PETITION TO THE SENATE FOR A SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT

PETITION to the Senate to Support the President of the United States and Pass the Suffrage Amendment in Accordance with the Request of the President of the United States.

TO THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES:

The President says that the Suffrage Amendment should be passed as a just recognition of the work American women have done for the support of the war. We agree with the President.

The President says that this Suffrage Amendment is a necessary war measure; that it will help to win the war.

Senators, that alone is surely reason enough why you should vote for the amendment.

Senators, your petitioners urge you to stand by the President and to heed his advice, and to vote for the Suffrage Amendment both as a war measure that will help us to win victory sooner and as an act of high justice to the patriotic women of the United States.

"Yellow Dog" Club Is Out to Chew Up Hun Propaganda

"Woof, woof!"

See that man with the button showing a yellow dog.

He belongs to the Yellow Dog Club of Brockton, the latest patriotic organization.

Pugnosed name, what!

But listen to the club's "demandments." The chief ones are:

"Thou shalt go forth a militant member of democracy to straigle the yellow dog of Hun hatched propaganda whenever and wherever it raises its head.

"Thou shalt not wag thine own tongue in abuse of the government, neither shalt thou sit idly by and hearken to such abuse.

"Thou shalt not become party to nor passively permit that arch enemy of victory—calamity howling.

"Eight days a week shalt thou labor to tie a can to the tail or that yellowest of yellow dogs, the enemy propagandist. Be unafraid."

The dog on the button has a yellow can tied to its tail. Over the dog's head hangs a club.

PRAYER APPEAL BY AMERICAN CARDINALS

Cardinals O'Connell, Gibbons and Farley have issued the following appeal to the American people under the title of "Fight and Pray."

"From the moment our country made its momentous decision to enter this tremendous conflict, the whole Catholic population of America has enthusiastically and whole-heartedly accepted its full share of work and sacrifice, and has unstintingly put forth all its resources to stand with all other Americans in the defense of our sacred principles of right and national duty.

"Animated by undaunted spirit, let the whole nation turn to God in prayer while our army courageously confronts the foe in the battle. While we utilize every possible source of material power let us fortify it all by the greatest of all spiritual power—prayer. But recently our Holy Father set aside the feast of St. Peter and Paul as a special day of prayer. Let us continue our obedience to his request and fervently offer our petitions to our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, that all the nations may see the way to mutual concord and understanding.

"Let us, moreover, each day, until the peace for which we fight crowns our efforts, say daily three times, morning at rising, at noon and in the evening, the Angelus, for the guidance of our rulers, the success of our arms, the unity of nations and the welfare of heroes.

"And may Almighty and Eternal God hearken to the prayers of a united nation and grant speedily that peace which surpasseth understanding."

BAKER ASKED TO SHOE WORKERS END STRIKE AT LAWRENCE

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker has been asked to intervene in the strike of the weavers at the American Woolen Company mills at Lawrence.

President William Wood of the company took this action when the weavers refused to return to work.

In asking for Federal assistance, President Wood wired Secretary Baker that each day of the strike means a loss to the country in cotton production of 50,000 yards.

Action of some kind on the part of the War Department on President Wood's request was expected today. The Federal authorities have already investigated the differences between the strikers and the company.

Following labor trouble at the Wood, Washington and Ayer mills at Lawrence remains unsettled, and 700 employes of the Saco-Lowell machine shop at Newton are on strike, the Holyoke machinist workers were expected to return to work today.

President William Wood of the American Woolen Company followed up his ultimatum, delivered to the weavers, by sending his telegram to Secretary Baker, asking for government assistance.

The weavers acted on President Wood's ultimatum at a mass meeting. They declared they would not return to work until their demands are granted.

The Saco-Lowell machine shop employes demand the establishment of an hour on time work and an increase of 2½ per cent. on piece work. The company has offered them an increase of three cents an hour. The strike was called off at Lowell and at Biddeford, Me.

Holyoke's brief strike of a day's duration was settled by the capitulation of the employers of the electrical workers. The workers demanded and secured an advance of 10 cents an hour, their pay being 54 cents per hour now, instead of 55 cents.

Endicott Leaves for Lawrence in Attempt to Settle Mill Strike

Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the Massachusetts Public Safety Committee, accepted invitations today from both sides to act as arbitrator in the strike of 1,500 weavers at three mills of the American Woolen Company at Lawrence.

Mr. Endicott went to Lawrence on the 2:55 train to confer with the strike committee. His visit accompanied by President John K. Stevens of Boston Central Labor Union and J. Frank O'Hare, prominent in organized labor.

The weavers struck for 55 per cent. increase and abolition of the premium system.

President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company wired Secretary of War Baker that the strike was causing the mills to lose 50,000 yards of production daily on war contracts. He said Mr. Endicott had been suggested as arbitrator, and Baker today wired Mr. Endicott a request that he take steps to settle the dispute.

War Work Held Up

We quote from the Proclamation of President Wilson of April 8, 1918, establishing the National War Labor Board:

"And I do hereby urge upon all employers and employees within the United States the necessity of utilizing the means and methods thus provided for the adjustment of all industrial disputes, and request that during the pendency of mediation or arbitration through the said agencies and methods, there shall be no discontinuance of industrial operations which would result in curtailment of the production of war necessities."

Our machinists recently made demands which by mutual agreement were submitted to the National War Labor Board for decision.

At the request of the National War Labor Board, at their hearing in Washington, June 10, 1918, representatives of the men and of the Corporation signed an agreement to abide by the decision of the Board. We had previously offered and agreed that the award should be made retroactive to May 1, 1918.

The decision of the Board has not yet been rendered. At 9 A. M., Monday, July 8, 1918, a portion of our machine shop employees, about nine hundred in number, went out on strike.

We are engaged on urgent war work which has been interrupted by this strike.

SENT FRENCH TO RANCH AS CURE FOR CAFE LIFE

Young Millionaire Tells of Meeting Royalty on Trip Abroad With Father

Finally, I was obliged to leave her and return with my father to this country.

I was very unhappy on the ship, and sought consolation drinking champagne. We arrived in New York on August 28, after a very exciting crossing. All the people on board were afraid at that time of the German cruisers—not the submarines—as the war was very young.

From that time on my career developed more and more romance.

Incidentally, I met royalty during that sojourn in England, at two affairs given by Lady Cheylesmore at Cooper's Hill. I was unaccustomed, of course, to this sort of thing—meeting Princesses and so on. It was quite a thrilling experience. Lady Cheylesmore had coached me as to the correct manner of greeting a crowned head. I think I managed to tide the affair over very successfully.

I was told "never to shake hands" with a princess, or, in fact, to display any emotion whatsoever upon meeting her but merely to bow my head very slightly and to walk out backwards from her presence.

Forgetting all this in my youthful embarrassment I very energetically attempted to shake hands with the first princess I met. She was the Princess of Denmark. But she very tactfully, seeing my embarrassment, shook hands with me cordially and bowed me out.

I did, however, walk out backwards, as I had been instructed, and, I think, that looked perfectly all right.

"I was introduced to King George. This was at the International Rifle Club at Bisley. I went there with my uncle, Lord Cheylesmore. When my uncle introduced me to the King as his nephew, King George said: 'I am very glad to meet an American, especially a nephew of Lord Cheylesmore.' Then I merely bowed and passed on."

As I say, when I got back to this country, my really animated career began.

When I arrived home in Newport I thought people were very slow in comparison to what I saw abroad. I directed I should have coffee served in my room by a waitress who had known me all my life since infancy. She very politely bowed her head and agreed that it should be done.

MEETS CHORUS GIRLS.

My friends, seeing my change of attitude toward girls of all classes, introduced me to several chorus girls who were "playing" Newport. I was very much overcome by their charms of course.

I took some of them down to society's bathing beach. We had a lot of champagne and, well, as Kipling says, "I learned about women" from them.

I went back to the family house. My mother could not understand at first seeing me in such hilarious condition. But she saw me to my room and said: "Good night."

From that time on I had numerous friendships with girls in Newport and New York which greatly occasioned the displeasure of my family.

The family were agreed, after November, 1914, that I should go West. So I went. I remained on a ranch of S. W. Aldrich for six months. It was straight ranch life and no exhilaration.

RETURNED TO RANCH.

I returned East in April of 1915. My family, seeing that I was still determined to resume my cafe life and the society of girls of whom they did not approve, concluded the only thing to do was to have me go back to the ranch, which I did for another five months.

My experiences on the ranch were many and varied. I had wild rides on broncbos upon which I was put by mischievous cowboys. I went to Cody frequently, had parties there, and finally Mr. Aldrich, the head of the ranch, wired my father that I was altogether too popular and that the wisest thing for me to do would be to come back East.

My father wired me to return. I went to Newport.

The War Service Naval Committee, of which Mrs. Guy Currier is chairman, has joined the United States Canteen Committee at Trinity Court, and will open the new canteen on Thursday night without formalities.

FRENCH SEEKS TO ANNUL HIS MARRIAGE

Young Millionaire Files Papers; Bridegroom Says He Was "Not Himself"

Edward Tuck French, millionaire bridegroom, whose matrimonial affairs are known to all New England, today made formal application for an annulment of his marriage to "Tot" Harrington, the Manchester telephone operator, paid his bill at the Copley-Plaza Hotel and packed his few effects preparatory to leaving for Atlantic City en route to his uncle's ranch in California. The application for annulment sets forth that the bridegroom was not quite himself at the time of the ceremony.

Ed's conclusions, he says, after nearly two weeks of hectic honeymoon are summed up as follows:

Few women can be trusted.

Society people do not stick by their friends.

Neither do democratic people.

Morning champoos and champagne at $340 for two weeks are too expensive even for a millionaire.

"The long looked-for check" as Ed French himself describes it, arrived today from a member of his family, who relented when he heard that Mrs. Edward French, upon advice of her counsel, had left the scion of the French family and was hiding in Boston.

ALL THROUGH WITH "TOT."

With the arrival of the check French paid his small bill and got ready to leave town. He has no use for Boston, he says, although Nantasket and Revere, where he paraded last evening, have their charms, he admits.

"I am all through with Tot," he told the AMERICAN today. "I have given her a reasonable time to come back, and she hasn't done it. Now I am through. My lawyers have begun proceedings to have the marriage annulled.

"Somehow, I think few can be trusted. Society people all threw me down when this thing began, and my sister, Mrs. Jack Geraghty, to whom I felt I could look for support, joined them.

"When Julia married Jack Geraghty I was the first of the family to hold out the hand of fellowship, but she has apparently forgotten all about that. I don't have any more faith in anybody and I am going out to my uncle's ranch in California and forget the whole lot of them."

"ON THE WAGON" NOW.

French said that the check for $1,000 which came to him today would be about half used up in paying off his accounts here and that the rest would take him to Atlantic City.

"But there's another thing," he said, "I am absolutely off alcohol forever more."

TROCO

The Successor to Butter

Made from the White Meat of Coconuts

Churned with Pasteurized Milk

Insist on Troco

If You Enjoy Good Butter

WHEN you give your order for Troco ask for it by name—not simply for "nut butter" or "nut margarine." For the flavor of Troco is achieved by an exclusive process, which gives the true creamery butter flavor. Other products can't give you Troco quality.

Troco is made by an exclusive process from vegetable fat—the dainty fat extracted from the white meat of coconuts, which is churned with pasteurized milk.

It is the national successor to butter—the gilt edged creamery kind. For only the finest butter made has the pure sweet flavor of Troco.

Like butter, Troco is energy food of the highest value, equally digestible and easily assimilated. And being the de luxe product for table use it naturally takes first place for cooking.

And remember—Troco contains no animal oils of any kind whatsoever, nor any preservatives.

Troco is made only from rich vegetable fats and pasteurized milk by a company which makes no animal oil products. Old laws, made before Troco was invented, require the name "oleomargarine" on the label.

Your dealer can get Troco for you on short notice — we fill orders promptly. Insist on Troco if you enjoy fine butter—it solves your butter problems. Your dealer will give you a capsule of the same vegetable coloring butter makers use.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

Free Information About Casualties by Red Cross

By International News Service.

New York, July 9.—The American Red Cross announces the opening of its communication service. This service provides free information to relatives of men wounded, killed or missing in France. Relatives desiring information should apply at the local Red Cross offices.

The Red Cross is now sending men to Europe to seek this information. They will write letters for wounded soldiers and serve them in any way possible.

The service marks the graves of soldiers who die, searches for missing men and locates prisoners. It will try to obtain for families the details concerning men who are wounded, killed or missing. As soon as there is a sufficient number of searchers in France this information will be sent to Washington regularly and will be immediately distributed.

The Atlantic cables are so crowding with essential business that nothing except what is absolutely necessary can be cabled. People at home are requested to bear the suspense bravely. The War Department and the Red Cross will use every effort to make the period of waiting as short as possible.

26 QUINCY DRAFTEES OFF TO FORT SLOCUM

Twenty-six draftees left Quincy on the 10:05 train for Fort Slocum today. There were supposed to be thirty of them. The absentees were: Camelo Satto, Frank Zoppi, Dudley Curran and Joseph St. Pierre. The absence of Satto is not strange. He is wanted on the charge of having murdered Romondo Savaia in a quarrel in Quincy two weeks ago.

MISS COLLIER NOT SUICIDE, SAYS MOTHER

"I am sure that my daughter died in an epileptic fit," said Mrs. R. L. Collier, mother of Marion Collier, whose body was found in Muddy River, Fenway, after an all-day search for the girl by her mother and the Boston police.

Marion, according to her mother, was subject to attacks of epilepsy about every three months. When, following an agonized search through the Fenway, where her daughter was in the habit of taking long walks, and repeated visits to the various police stations of the city, Mrs. Collier was finally taken to identify the girl's body at the morgue, there was foam on the lips and the eyes were protruding, she says, conditions which obtained only while the girl was in an epileptic attack.

The girl had resigned her position at a printing establishment Saturday and announced her intention of looking for another place.

Mrs. Collier is satisfied that it was not a case of suicide. "It was just what I feared—another attack of epilepsy, when she must have fallen into the river," she declared.

VICE CLEAN-UP IS UNFINISHED, SAYS RUCKMAN

Vice conditions in Boston are considered more serious than at first anticipated, and Agent Wright of the war training camps commission says the detailed report will not be given to the public till later in the week.

Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, commanding the Department of the Northeast, made it known today that there should be no publicity given to the details until the cooperation of every organization, social and religious, was assured.

"We have nothing to report today about any of the details of vice conditions" replied General Ruckman.

"In such an important measure as this concerning the social conditions of this city, we need to move carefully. The co-operation of every agency—naval, military, municipal, state and religious organizations, must be back of such an effort to keep the city pure.

"Whatever is to be said about this matter is not in proper shape for any publicity at present."

When asked if conditions were not better than at first reported, the general shook his head.

Major Fred McDonald, provost-marshal, will be in constant consultation with General Ruckman about what plans are to be followed in getting the interest and support of every reform organization of Greater Boston.

Mansfield, July 9.—Anthony S. Morris, charged with desertion from Camp Upton, ran amuck here. The plot of his scenario ran like this:

Arrived in town, a fugitive, but posing as a corporal.

Demanded a motorcycle at Cobb's garage to chase a deserter.

Arrested by Chief Thomas H. Nelson.

Drew gun and escaped.

Tracked to cellar of Tom Robbins, besieged and re-arrested. Taken from cell, attempted to beat up Officers Ring and Copping.

Arraigned in Attleboro Court, charges placed on file.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER HAS 79TH BIRTHDAY

New York, July 8.—John D. Rockefeller quietly observed his seventy-ninth birthday at his home yesterday. He arose early and played three games of golf before noon. In the afternoon the entire party enjoyed a long automobile ride.

EDITOR OF MAIL MAY BE ACCUSED OF TREASON

By International News Service.

Washington, July 9.—Ig Edward A. Rumely, who is alleged to have purchased the New York Evening Mail with $735,000 supplied by Germany, may have to face the charge of treason, it was said today.

While Department of Justice officials would not make this flat assertion, it was strongly intimated that Rumely's activities would be further investigated, with a view to bringing a charge of treason against him.

The case against Rumely was worked out by the Department of Justice here, and turned over to the New York authorities for their action.

The activities of the publisher's associates also are undergoing a rigid investigation. It was learned today, and further arrests are likely to come at any time.

HELD IN $35,000.

Rumely was held for $35,000 bail today when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Hitchcock in the Federal court on a charge of perjury in seeking to conceal, it is alleged, that he bought the Mail for the German imperial government.

Dr. Rumely was held only on the perjury charge in connection with his report to A. Mitchell Palmer, enemy alien property custodian. He was unable to furnish bail immediately. Hearing was set for July 12.

Following his arrest in the office of State Attorney-General Lewis yesterday, Dr. Rumely was held in $100,000 bail in the Tombs overnight.

In the detention pen adjoining the office of United States Marshal McCarthy, where he was taken after his arraignment, Dr. Rumely dictated the following statement:

RUMELY'S STATEMENT.

"The editorial policy of the Evening Mail has been under my absolute and sole control. The paper, the editorial page in particular, has been an expression of my attitude on public questions uninfluenced by any consideration other than my own judgment of what was the right thing to do from the standpoint of America's interests.

"The Mail has backed every war activity of the government to the limit of its power and has performed a work second to no other paper in developing policies for the efficient organization of our country for this necessary war.

"My return to the alien property custodian regarding the notes which I personally had on hand is with. I am convinced, when all the facts are available, be found truthful in every respect."

Endicott Chauffeur Drafted.

Henry B. Endicott's chauffeur, Peter Cappuccio, was among ten draftees who left Dedham today for Fort Slocum. Previous to starting the boys were given comfort kits by the Dedham committee.

FIVE BILLIONS, REVENUE NEED AFTER WAR

Huge Sum Must Be Raised to Retire Bonds and Pay Interest on War Loans

By International News Service.

Washington, July 9.—Five billion dollars a year in revenue will be needed by the government at the close of the war to pay interest on bonds, to retire bonds and for the expenses of the government.

This was the prediction of Henry T. Rainey, ranking Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, after a preliminary conference of the committee on the new revenue bill today. The bill will be drawn with an eye to the future. Many of the taxes written into it will continue for years after the war has ended.

The revenue raised by the government before the war was $1,000,000,000 annually. The present revenue bill will raise $8,000,000,000. The principal sources will be income, excess profits and luxury taxes. Luxury and excess profits taxes will have to be reduced after the war, but the income from these sources will be made up by increases in tariff rates.

The proposal to increase tariff rates in the present bill has met with no favor in the committee. Neither have any of the novelty revenue suggestions put forward by amateur economists in the last month of hearings.

The new bill, it was emphasized today, will be, "for revenue only." It will not attempt to limit extravagance or to eliminate non-essential industries, although these things may result from some of the taxes it is necessary to impose. One exception is now in contemplation. The manufacture of platinum jewelry will be halted by a prohibitive tax.

KING GEORGE GIVES USE OF PALACE TO AID NURSES

London, July 9.—St. James palace was today turned over by King George for a garden party for the benefit of the national fund for nurses. Living friezes from Shakespeare, Botticelli, Augustus John, Chubbin Chow and so on were shown on the terraces. Princess Patricia was present.

HEAVY CLOTHES WILL HELP TO SAVE COAL

Storrow Also Urges Tightening Up Openings in Homes and Use of Wood

Heavier clothing will help win the war by saving domestic coal.

This is the latest conservation item, as announced in a general coal bulletin issued today from the office of James J. Storrow, Federal coal administrator for New England.

In residences and smaller public buildings, using almost exclusively anthracite and coke, a saving may be promoted in general, according to the bulletin, by storm windows, storm sashes, weather strips and all kinds of protection against heat losses and against the introduction of cold air.

By the use of heavier clothing the temperature can be lowered considerably without danger to health. All rooms should be shut off unless absolutely needed. In residences, wood should be used as late in the Fall as possible, so that heaters and boilers need not be started until the very cold weather comes.

By maintaining sufficient humidity, rooms can be made as comfortable at 65 degrees as at 70, with the very dry air usually found in dwellings.

Local fuel committee chairmen have been requested by Mr. Storrow to secure at once the active participation of every Bay State manufacturer in the program to reduce facory consumption of coal.

More than 7,000 manufacturers, or about 40 per cent, in the Bay State, have already pledged themselves to fuel-saving steps.

"It is a foregone conclusion that there will be a shortage of soft coal next Winter," Mr. Storrow said.

A bulletin issued by the Advisory Engineering Committee sounds the warning: "Coal economy or no coal at all."

Manufacturers are asked to conserve not only fuel, but to guard against waste of steam, lighting and power.

STORROW NOT NOTIFIED OF COAL RATION PLAN

Fuel Administrator Storrow's office had not received any official notice from the National Fuel Administration regarding the probability of householders in New England being put on coal rations this Winter. Until some notice has been received no statement will be given out by Mr. Storrow.

LEARN TO SPEAK FRENCH IN 20 LESSONS

Can you "parlez-vous?"

Well, if you can't, you ought to learn, for its becoming just as popular and patriotic as knitting, or buying Liberty Bonds, or putting your money into W. S. S. certificates.

For to "parlez-vous" is to engage in nothing more or less than a French conversation, and who doesn't want to do that?

If you were going to France in a war capacity, how could you walk around the streets of Paris or Brest without being able to ask questions of our French brothers and sisters?

How could you procure your food in a restaurant or purchase little things in the Parisian shops without being able to tell the clerks what you wanted?

And if you're not going across, you'll soon find a knowledge of the beloved language here at home just as indispensable as good old Anglo-Saxon, for to converse ab Francais will soon be THE thing, and who doesn't want to keep in style?

How can you learn?

Well, beginning next Sunday and continuing for twenty weeks thereafter, the Sunday ADVERTISER-AMERICAN will offer a series of lessons so simple, so clear and so complete that the very learning will be a pleasure.

The new method will be so arranged that you will be able to grasp the principles of the language with a minimum of effort, and what is more, by following the simple instructions you will have a vocabulary of over 2,000 words before the series is ended.

There won't be any grammar to study, or bughears like conjugation, and other things that made the language lessons in our ealier days so irksome.

You'll learn to speak actual sentences, will learn how to pronounce from a remarkable explanatory key and before you'll be aware of it, you'll be a French linguist of the first order.

Remember, this course is free. Begin it in next Sunday's ADVERTISER-AMERICAN.

DEMOCRACY | BOSTON, TUESDAY, JULY 9, 1918. | LIBERTY

CIVILIANS MAY TRAIN TO BE OFFICERS

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, July 9.—Civilians between the ages of twenty years and eight months and forty years desiring to receive the benefit of an officer's training school and be commissioned in the infantry, artillery or machine-gun service, have the opportunity under a ruling of the War Department, and applications may be filed now for the opening classes which will probably be formed July 12.

Three infantry schools will be opened at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., where all New England men will be instructed; Camp Pike, Arkansas, and Camp Gordon, Georgia. All candidates must have a high school education or equivalent, must be of good character, and must file three letters of recommendation with the application. Application for the infantry schools must be made to the professor of military science and tactics nearest his home, and Bay State candidates must file at Harvard College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Amherst Massachusetts Agricultural School or Williams College.

Maine applications will be received at Bowdoin and University of Maine and New Hampshire College will receive applications in that State. Vermont University will receive with the Vermont Agricultural College, and Norwich University and Connecticut will have receiving stations at Yale, Wesleyan, Storrs Agricultural College and Trinity. Rhode Island candidates may file at Brown or the State College.

Artillery candidates will all be sent to Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., and must make application there. Machine gun applicants will attend Camp Hancock and must make their application to the officer at that post.

If the application is acted favorably upon the candidate will be notified where to report for examination, and if accepted in any school will be rated as a private first class and receive $33 a month. Graduates will receive commissions as second lieutenants and will be assigned as vacancies occur.

Enlisted men will be selected from each camp by their superior officers and a delegation of privates and noncommissioned officers will be chosen from this cantonment.

EDITORIAL

Soldier and sailor camps in the country that have not already taken advantage of the war insurance as guaranteed by the United States Government, would do well to follow the lead established by the draftees and enlisted men at Camp Devens, where an average policy of $8,797 has been written to 54,104 men. This cantonment has the highest average of any in the country, and the 54,104 men that have accepted the opportunity have had certificates written for $476,000,000. Last week $5,000,000 was taken out.

In the entire country enlisted men have subscribed for more than $5,000,000,000 worth, and yet many have not taken the precaution to protect themselves against the uncertainty of war.

Fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters and wives should prevail on their relative who has taken arms to protect his country that he has not done his full duty until he has protected his family.

Especially should every married man subscribe for all he can afford for the benefit of his wife and children.

BOTH OF LOCAL NAVAL HEADS IN CAPITAL

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, July 9.—The fleet of which the Commonwealth is a part is temporarily without an official head. Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood, commandant of the First Naval District, and Captain William H. Rush, commandant of the Navy Yard, and who is likely to become a rear admiral in the near future, are both in Washington.

It is expected that during the visit several matters of importance to the welfare of the ship will be taken up and disposed of. Among these, it is probable, will be the question of moving the ship to other quarters.

With the vast increase that is anticipated in the work of the Naval Overseas Transportation Agency, quartered on the ship, it would seem to be only a question of time before it becomes necessary to give the Commonwealth over entirely to the new department.

There will soon be a very large number of ships in the overseas service, and it is generally realized that it would be very difficult to find a place more suitable for handling them than at the pier.

Some of the officers and men of the ship have been having a trouble some time during the last few days. Among recent recruits are Harry and Charles Nicholson, who come from Malden, and are carried on the Commonwealth's log as yeomen.

There have been twin brothers on the ship before, but never two who were so entirely without distinguishing marks that it was impossible to tell which is which.

SKULL FRACTURE CAUSES DEATH OF REVERE MAN

Christino Ferrandi, 36, unmarried, of Revere street, Revere, died today at the Massachusetts General Hospital of a fractured skull. The circumstances in Ferrandi's case puzzled the doctors and authorities. He was an enthusiastic bicycle rider, and Sunday evening went out for a ride. He returned later, walking, and wheeling his machine, complained of feeling ill and went to bed, saying only that he had had a fall. He then lapsed into unconsciousness.

WIFE CLAIMS BODY OF "MILLIONAIRE" SUICIDE

Roy F. Berger, Lynn shoe operative and reputed son of a millionaire tea merchant of London, Eng., who committed suicide in a Lynn factory Saturday, was buried this afternoon. His wife, formerly Miss Gertrude Furlong of Boston, from whom he had been separated, claimed the body at Haven's mortuary, and with her four children attended the funeral. Services were held in the Rhodes Memorial Chapel at Pinegrove Cemetery, Rev. Leroy Springfellow of the Trinity M. E. Church officiating.

YOUNG, CANDIDATE FOR SPEAKER, GOES TO CAMP

Representative Benjamin Loring Young of Weston, one of the four Republican candidates for Speaker of the next House of Representatives, has entered the Harvard Summer Camp for a six-weeks' course in military training. He is still in the speakership race.

William H. O'Brien, chief of the telephone bureau of the Public Service Commission, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination against Congressman James A. Gallivan in the Twelfth District.

COMPETENT INSPECTION OF ELEVATORS IS URGED

Unless Boston elevators are inspected by officials more competent than those who have merely learned about elevator construction from the books, the accidents and fatalities of the past few years will continue, according to John C. MacDonald, business agent and international officer for Elevator Constructors, No. 248 Harrison avenue.

Mr. MacDonald calls attention to the report of the Industrial Accident Board, that there were 750 deaths and 4,000 non-fatal accidents in elevators during the past four years.

"So far as Boston is concerned there is immediate need for our chief executive to have the new building commission make an investigation at once into the personnel of the elevator division, and satisfy himself that every man inspecting is a thorough, practical man," said Mr. MacDonald.

B. & M. R. R. TO SPEND MILLION IN LOWELL

1,000 CHINESE SLAIN BY BOLSHEVIKI

By International News Service.

London, July 8.—A thousand Chinese have been murdered in Chinese Turkestan by roving hordes of Bolsheviki, according to reports from that district, said a Pekin dispatch to the Times.

It is reported that the Bolsheviki have sent an ultimatum to Russian Turkestan, demanding removal of the ruler.

It was followed by an expedition which mowed down the peasants from armored trains, and looted towns.

Brutal treatment was accorded to men and women alike.

Millions of dollars were taken when the State bank was looted.

This Makes the Curl Stay in Your Hair

The silmerine method of curling the hair is unusually popular just now, according to the druggists. This is largely due to the warm weather and because women are now spending so much of their time out of doors. Liquid silmerine not only produces the loveliest, natural looking curls and waves, but it keeps the hair in curl no matter how hot or how moist the day, or how hard the wind blows.

It is simply wonderful how this harmless liquid converts the most lifeless, lankest hair into such pliant, easy-to-dress locks in a single application. All one need do is to wet a clean cloth brush with silmerine before retiring, draw this through the hair, and in the morning the fresh wave and ringlets. A few applications will keep the hair curly for many weeks. It will also keep it wonderfully soft, silky and lustrous.—Advertisement.

LODGE ORATOR FOR BASTILE DAY

Senator Will Address Mass Meeting in Honor of French Independence Day

Boston's celebration of Bastile Day next Sunday, commemorating the fall of the great prison in France at the outbreak of the French Revolution, will be featured by a mass meeting in Symphony Hall at which Senator Lodge will be the principal speaker. Mayor Peters will be away, and in his absence President Lowell of Harvard will preside.

M. Stephan Lausanne will accept the tribute on behalf of the French people. There will be music by a military band, and a prominent labor man, whose name has not yet been announced, will deliver an address. The exercises will be held under the direction of the Boston Committee on Public Safety.

In his proclamation, issued today, Mayor Peters says:

"Never can our country repay to France the inspiration for freedom expressed in our Declaration of Independence, the aid which Lafayette and the other French leaders gave our forefathers, and the steadfast friendship France has shown in our international relations.

"France made her Declaration of Independence at the fall of the Bastile, July 14, 1789. The seizure of this ancient stronghold of tyranny by the people of France marked the beginning of a new day of liberty.

"As Mayor of the City of Boston I ask you all, my fellow citizens, to unite in the celebration of July 14 as a tribute to the French Republic. I ask the churches of the city to observe the day with special prayers for France and to give special recognition to France's claim on us. I ask all organizations and societies to take such action in regular or special meetings if necessary, as will evidence their support and devotion to France."

CHILD BURNED WHEN DRESS TAKES FIRE

Marjiehead, July 9.—Barbara Phillips, 3 years old, of No. 54 Rowland street, was severely burned about the body and face when her clothing caught fire from a bonfire in the yard, which was started by her sister, Constance, 5 years old. Her father, Mahlon Phillips, was badly burned about the hands while tearing off the burning dress of his child.

Physicians Explain Why Women Need More Iron in their Blood Today than 30 Years Ago

Say Anaemia—Lack of Iron is Greatest Curse to the Health, Strength, Vitality and Beauty of the Modern American Woman.

Less than a quarter of a century ago, little or no effort was expected of the average woman and her quiet pursuits demanded far less strength, energy and endurance than now.

Today there is not a woman but who stands ready to serve her country and do a man's work if needed. But to meet the strain she must be full of the life, vim and vitality that come from having plenty of iron in the blood.

DR. FERDINAND KING, New York Physician and Medical Author, says physicians should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to supply the iron deficiency. Opinions of Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital; Dr. A. J. Newman, former Police Surgeon pf Chicago, and other physicians who have thoroughly tested the value of Nuxated Iron.

Any woman who tries easily, is nervous or irritable, or looks pale, haggard and worn, should at once have her blood examined for iron deficiency. Then a course of simple Nuxated Iron will often increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous women in two weeks' time.

"There can be no strong, healthy, beautiful, rosy-cheeked women without iron," says Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York physician and Medical Author, who has strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking women patients. Pallor means anaemia. The skin of an anaemic woman is pale, the flesh flabby, the muscles lack tone, the brain fags, and the nerves flash, and often they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and miserable. Dr. King says that the real blood of women the reason why so many of the starches, sugars, cereals, syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soda crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farinaceous and predigested cereal foods no longer contain enough iron to be found. Refining processes have removed the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and silly methods of home cookery by throwing down the waste pips the water in which our vegetables are cooked, are responsible for another grave iron loss. Therefore, you should supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron, just as you would sugar and salt when your food has not enough salt."

Dr. A. J. Newman, Former Police Surgeon of Chicago, and former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says: "It has been my particular duty during the past six years to assist in keeping Chicago's five thousand blue coats in good health and perfect fighting trim in every way, and for anyone to be overpowered to withstand all manner of storms and resist disease germs, I recently I was prompted to give Nuxated Iron a trial. This remedy has proven through my own tests of it to excel any preparation of iron I have used for creating red blood, building up the nerves, strengthening the muscles and correcting digestive disorders."

Dr. Schuyler Mathews, Visiting Physician of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said: "I have now given Nuxated Iron quite extensive clinical tests and am pleased to say that I have obtained results in every way satisfactory. Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty to my patients if I were not to myself use and give it to my patients with most surprising results. And those who wish quick increase in strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable remedy. It is a positive tonic."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westchester County Hospital, says: "Thousands of persons are suffering year after year, doctoring themselves for all kinds of ills, when the real and true cause underlying their condition is simply a lack of sufficient iron in the red blood corpuscles to enable Nature to transform the food they eat into strength, muscle, tissue and brain. But beware of the old forms of metallic iron which frequently do more harm than good. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians, thousands of people still insist in doing themselves with metallic iron simply, I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to the trouble then purchase only Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If it does not have these separations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and fails to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron.

"If people would only take Nuxated Iron as they feel weak or run-down, instead of dosing themselves with habit-forming drugs, stimulants and alcoholic beverages, there are probably thousands who might possibly build up their red blood corpuscles, increase their physical energy and gain renewed vitality into a condition to defy the millions of disease germs that are always continually around us. It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not realize it. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Manufacturers' Note—Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make one constipated or upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in the usual way by all good druggists.

FILENE SAYS HE WAS MISQUOTED BY CAPELLE

Declares Hun Admiral Sought to Bolster Losing Cause by Misstatement

Edward A. Filene has issued the following statement:

"Vice-Admiral von Capelle is reported in an Amsterdam dispatch as quoting me in his recent Reichstag speech to the effect that it would be the Spring of 1919 before our ship construction would equal or exceed sinkings by submarines; that current reports of reduction in the number of sinkings were based on hope.

ATTEMPT TO MISLEAD.

"In the usual method of manufacturing propaganda to mislead the German people with which we have become so familiar, Vice-Admiral von Capelle tried to bolster up his case by tearing three or four lines from the context of my address before the Merchants' Association of New York on May 7th, where I spoke to a group of the most important business men and editors of New York and the Metropolitan District, urging an even greater co-operation in the production of ships—beyond the splendid record that was already made.

"I said in that address, 'by November of this year we shall be turning out something like 500,000, 600,000, 700,000 tons of shipping per month, which is more than we turned out in a year in the ordinary years before the war; an incredibly great quantity and a triumph.'

"When I said it would be the Spring of 1919 before we could catch up with losses (as the outlook was then) the whole context of my address made it clear that I referred not to current losses month by month, but to our total losses—which is a very different story.

URGED DOUBLE SHIFTS.

"My sole plea was that the following six months would probably be the most critical of the war—as military authorities themselves were predicting—and that unless the business forces of all shipbuilding communities made it their first duty to help to the utmost in getting out ships, we should fall short of what we were capable of doing—and to that degree prolong the war, and make victory (that much costlier. I was specifically urging a co-operation of business men to their end of instituting two shifts of workmen in every shipyard where but one was working.

"In the address I asserted emphatically my complete confidence that the submarines would be defeated by the united will and action of American productive genius.

"Since that time the increasing concentration of our best business minds upon ship-building under the leadership of Mr. Schwab is bringing in increasing measure results that may well make the German Minister of the Navy hunt for isolated sentences which he can misquote to bolster up his losing cause."

CHARLES D. DALY IS NOW A LIEUTENANT-COLONEL

Charles D. Daly is now a Lieutenant-colonel. Boston's former fire commissioner, graduate of West Point, and former quarterback of Harvard, has been commissioned with that rank in the National Army, according to word received here. He graduated from West Point in 1903, a year later resigned from the army, in 1910 was appointed fire commissioner, and in 1913 was removed as fire commissioner and was reinstated in the army with the rank of first lieutenant. He has since been promoted to captain, in the Regular Army. He is at a western front.

MOVE TO END MILL STRIKE AT FITCHBURG

Fitchburg, July 9.—The first step toward settlement of the strike of 750 employees of the Fitchburg and Grant Yarn Mills in this city was taken today when a conference between a committee representing the strikers and George F. Grant, one of the proprietors of the mills, was to take place.

Failure to adjust the dispute at the conference will result in an appeal to Henry B. Endicott, chairman of the State committee on Public Safety who adjusted the Lowell taxi strike. He will be invited by the strikers to act as arbitrator here.

HOWARD BANQUETED ON FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY

The 50th birthday of Henry Howard of Boston and Brookline, director of the United States Shipping Board Recruiting Service, was celebrated at the Tavern Club, where he was given a complimentary dinner by associates at national headquarters of the merchant marine training service at Boston. Louis K. Liggett, who offered the Shipping Board the services of more than 6,000 druggists in 48 States as special enrolling agents for the merchant marine training ships, was a guest.

JEWS ORGANIZING TO OPPOSE HUNS IN RUSSIA

New York, July 9.—The International News Service learned yesterday from one of the confidential representatives, that Jews in Russia were organising Jewish legions. The purpose is to oppose Germany and the Bolshevik regime. In the event of a new Russian army being put into the field, the Jewish legions, it is stated, will be among the first to march to the front.

OFFICE BOY AND NOTES FOR $100,000 MISSING

New York, July 9.—The police have sent out an alarm for the arrest of James Evans, an office boy for Baldwin & Leslie. Evans failed to return from luncheon Saturday. It was discovered afterward that a strong box containing ten notes of $10,000 each, some private papers and $41 in cash were missing. The notes are not negotiable.

TERRY BROOKS BOXES MARTIN AT ARENA

Constructing a Class A finic card on twenty-four hours' notice is far from an easy task, but on paper it looks as if the Armory A. A. directors have succeeded in putting together a mighty spicy show for tonight.

Originally it was to have been Johnny Dundee vs. Frankie (Young) Britt, but the former pulled a "Phil Miske" on the firm of Murray, McLean, Lane & Co. Dundee boxed in Cleveland Saturday and hurt his left hand, or was it his right?

Lewis is satisfied that a wondrous bit of pinch matchmaking has been done, and is confident that tonight's show is going to be jammed full of action.

There will be three ten-rounders, with a six-round curtain-raiser. Terry Brooks, king of the newsboys and demon West End hatter, hooks up with Johnny Martin of New York, who is a veritable second Boscow, as he proved in his two starts at the Commercial A. C.

Walter Butler and Larry Burns also will collide. All this will be a slashing fine quarrel, asserts Lewis. Then Shavar O'Brien of South Boston and Harvey Adair of New York, two battling rascals, opines the busy secretary of the Triple A., will also be trotted out.

The two boys in the six-rounder are Willie Jones and Bob Josephs, both of the South End.

GOSSIP OF GLOVELAND

THE COMMERCIAL A. C. has secured Jack White of Chicago, brother of Charley White, lightweight champion, to meet Joe Curry at New Haven, Ct., in a twelve-round bout Friday night.

* * *

WHITE HAS not nearly all the headliners in the featherweight and lightweight classes, including Johnny Dundee, Joe Rivers, Owen Moran, Joe Mandot and Johnny Kilbane. He is due to arrive in Boston tomorrow morning.

JOE CURRY made good with a vengeance in his two showings in the Hub. He took Johnny Buckley into camp and last week polished off Henri LeBoeuf of New Bedford. The fans will have a chance to render a verdict on Joe Mandot and Johnny Kilbane. He is due to arrive in Boston tomorrow morning.

MATCHMAKER WILLIAMS has arranged the following card for the Crescent A. C., Lowell, Friday evening: Young Conley of Lowell vs. Phil Burke of Charlestown, six rounds; Johnny Grey of Chelsea vs. Young Francis of Lawrence, eight rounds; Battling A. Nelson of Manchester, N. H., vs. Joe Rivers of Gloucester, ten rounds; Girard Gilbert of Lawrence vs. Mike Paulson of St. Paul, ten rounds.

DAVID A. GRAHAM, now at Camp Devens and known in fistic circles as Busky Graham, is angry over the report that he was knocked out by Jimmy Duncan at Lowell last Friday night. Here's what Graham has to say in a letter to the AMERICAN:

Having read in your paper about Busky Graham being knocked out in three rounds at Lowell, I beg to contradict the statement, as I am in the United States Army doing my part in training to fight "over there." The Busky Graham who was supposed to have been knocked out by Johnny Duncan must have been some boy he picked up.

Corbett's Corner

This is the first of a series of articles which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning the career of the late Stanley Ketchel, one of the most marvelous ring warriors of all time. The next instalment will appear tomorrow.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

Stanley Ketchel fought in the division made famous by such marvelous warriors as Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Dempsey, Charlie Mitchell, Kid McCoy, and a score of others whose names and deeds add glorious chapters to ring history. And yet there are many knowing full well the greatness of each, who acclaim Ketchel "the greatest middleweight of all time."

To me, Bob Fitzsimmons ever will appear as the middleweight without a peer; as the king of all kings that reigned in the 158-pound division.

But I accord to Ketchel the distinction of being perhaps the greatest fighter for his weight and inches that the ring game has produced in nearly two decades.

KETCHEL LOVED TO FIGHT.

And to Ketchel must go the added glory of being as fearless a man as ever stepped into a prize ring.

Never in all the fights which he engaged, did Ketchel ever show the remotest trace of fear. Confidence was his in every battle he fought — confidence that was superb for the audience to look upon; awe-inspiring for his foes to withstand.

Stanley Ketchel loved to fight—loved the excitement and the danger of physical combat. He was never really happy outside the ring, finding his greatest pleasure in putting his skill, his brains, his strength and his terrible punch against that of a foeman.

Opponents could not be brought before Stanley Ketchel fast enough to suit him. And Ketchel never cared how much bigger they were or how much heavier.

"If the other guy is bigger than I am that makes it all the nicer for me," Ketchel used to say.

"I don't want lemons. They don't even furnish a fellow with a real workout. Give me the tough ones—the tougher the better."

No man of the countless thousands who have graced the prize ring in the 200 years that pugilism has been a sport has compiled a knockout record more wonderful than that of Stanley Ketchel.

From 1903, when his career began, until he was sent to his grave in 1910 by an assassin's bullet, Stanley Ketchel mingled in fifty-eight battles—and won forty-four with knockout wallops.

REMARKABLE RING RECORD.

Just to show how remarkable was Ketchel's record, which charges him with only four defeats, I shall give you herewith the summary:

Total fights	58
Won with knockout	44
Won on decision	3
Draw	3
No decision	4
Lost by knockout	0
Lost on decision	3

"The record of Ketchel becomes even more remarkable when one takes into consideration the fact that he won about two-thirds of his fights in five rounds or less.

He scored eight knockout victories in the first round, four in the second, seven in the third, five in the fourth and three in the fifth—a total of 27.

Once, during the heyday of his career, a friend of Ketchel said to him:

"Stan, you don't give the crowd its money's worth. They want to see a lot of you, but you go right out and slam the other guy for a goal in the quickest time possible —and then the show is over."

Ketchel's reply was characteristic of him:

"I am a fighter, and it's my belief," he said, "that a fighter should fight on top speed from the gong to gong. I don't believe in stalling or in fancy stuff.

"Part of a fight crowd likes to see a lot of boxing, but I believe that the majority of 'em hope to see a knockout in Ludlow. Indeed in a hurry. I aim to please the majority."

JOHREN WINS HANDICAP AFTER ROUGH JOURNEY

New York, July 8.—Harry Payne Whitney's Johren, which is to meet W. E. Applegate's Jack Hare, Jr., in the Dwyer stakes Thursday, won the handicap for three-year-olds at Aqueduct.

The idol had all he could do to win, however, being shut off right after the start, and Jockey Robinson was forced to take him up.

Johren made up ground fast going down the back stretch and caught the leaders at the three-quarter pole, and stood the final drive gamely. Red Wood hung on tight and ran a brilliant race, finishing second. Damrosch was in tight quarters to the last furlong.

BAKER TO PASS ON PLAYERS' APPEAL

Washington, July 9.—Secretary of War Baker will personally pass on the question of whether professional baseball players of draft age are to be drawn into the army or into war industries under the "work or fight" order of Provost Marshal General Crowder. An opinion on the question by General Crowder is now before the secretary.

"I should hate to see anything done," declared the secretary, "that would interfere with the great national game. But I do not want you to take this as foreshadowing my decision in the matter."

MAYS CHANGES MIND AND NOT GOING HOME

Carl Mays, Red Sox' crack right hander, has decided to remain with the Fenway club until he is drafted, if drafted he is to be.

Somewhat alarmed, but far too good a citizen to be worried, by the reports that he might be reclassified in the near future, Carl had intended leaving the club today for his farm, near Springfield, Mo., where his mother and younger brothers are living.

While the first game of the doubleheader with the Indians was being played, Mays held a long confab with President Frazee in the club's offices. Frazee convinced him, it is said, that he will have plenty of time to adjust his affairs, even if the reports should turn out to be correct.

"I don't care to say what might have been; if I was figuring upon going home or never considered such a thing," stated Mays today. "However, had I left, on ship-building plant would have been my address. No ifs, ands or buts in mine."

BATTLE IS STILL ON FOR LEAD

Red Sox and Cleveland Indians Fighting Hard for First Place Honors

By NICK FLATLEY.

The battle for first place in the American League is still on with Cleveland right on the heels of the Red Sox. The double-header of yesterday leaves the teams about where they were and today's game may tell the story.

Babe Ruth, erstwhile recalcitrant, preserved the even balance of the Beetle American League race. Battering Bahe caught hold of one, as the ball players say, in the tenth inning of the initial game of the double-header for the Fohls.

The ball sailed, and sailed, and sailed, as Joseph Conrad and Mahaley and Homer and other litterateurs express great distances. It was a tremendous thump, to be modern.

The onion plopped far up into the right field bleachers—farther than ever before a baseball was belted.

A MOST ROBUST CLOUT.

Said onion would have nestled in the bleachers even out at sparsious Braves' Field. It was the longest homer Battering Babe ever knocked in his short but spectacular career, but on the records it only goes as a triple, as Strunk was on first and knew enabled in with the winning run.

The greatest slugger in history has not made a circle clout on his native Fenway lot this season, officially speaking, but he sure set up a distance record, while winning the opener of our double-header.

His blow scored the only run of the first pastime, which, as you can deduce, the Sox therefore grabbed off, 1 to 0. Ruth didn't come through with any prodigious paste in the finale and the Indians took it, 4 to 3.

Both contests were tight and kept a large Monday crowd of approximately 8,000 excited all the time.

SAM JONES IN HIGH.

There was a flock of fine pitching. Samuel Jones holding the hostiles to four hits in the first one, while Guy Morton went him one better in the second, and two of the safeties were scratches at that.

Stanley Coveleskie was beaten in the Ruth game, while underhand Carl Mays, who, if reports be true, has enlistments and things like that to worry about, got the worst of it in the second.

That game was won in the ninth with two out, just the same, Wambsganss slamming a lusty triple over Hooper's roof at said juncture, and crossing when Carl cut loose a wild pitch.

It furnished a somewhat dolorous, but extremely thrilling windup for an all-star fine baseball day.

Mays, it might be mentioned, made a game effort to put his team in the running by busting out a double in the ninth, the lone Sox counter being, but two were out and Harry Hooper couldn't resume the blood pitcher.

BOX SCORE COMMENT

By H. W. LANIGAN.

THE WORLD'S SERIOUS—Since there has been another assassination in Europe, in which the seventh royal family is vitally interested, it would appear that there has been sufficient provocation for another shakeup of the world. However, since the Kaiser has learned that the Americans have taught King George how to play baseball, it is probable that there will be no mass stirred up.

JOHN K. TENER says that he is glad Hornsby has been selected for the test case of the "one-man-fight" order. Maybe Hornsby himself will have something to say.

THE FACT that Hank Gowdy wore a catcher's mask for so many years is probably the reason that he was selected to teach other Hunnies how to wear gas masks.

FRANK BAUER was in a particular hurry about coming across with that century bit, but he selected a rather unpleasant time to deliver it. That is, as Christy Bowland sees it.

BRAVES WIND UP SERIES WITH PIRATES

Pittsburgh, July 9.—Rabbit Maranville of the United States Navy, on shore leave and taking his vacation on the western front with the Braves, scarred with Pat Ragan in the matinee on Forbes Field.

Ragan held the slugging Pirates to three hits; Comstock and Sanders were found in the pinches by the Braves, and the enemy triumphed, 5-0.

The Rabbit inserted a clean drive to left in the third frame, the big, gindsome one for the Braves. Ragan, Hawkings, Herzog and Mamey followed with hits and five runs were registered, putting the game on the merry blink.

Maranville's shortstop play was just as spectacular and flawless as ever. He had Johnny Rawlings for his mate at second, Manager Stallings switching Herzog to first and putting Konetchy out in the meadows. The Big Train had Wickland and Massey as co-laborers, Jimmy Smith adorning the bench.

Massey, Wickland and Bigbee took turns making circus catches. As for Ragan, the Hibernian-Hispano pitcher was never better. Up to the ninth he yielded but two hits. Then, the third one was punched out, but it, too, was wasted.

COX'S GAMEY ANNEXES NORTH RANDALL STAKE

Cleveland, July 9.—Cox's Gamey, driven by Cox, won the Edwards pacing stake at North Randall by annexing the last two heats. On the first heat the winner broke and was barely able to get under the wire, finishing eighth. Peter Look took second money.

The two-year-old trot sweepstakes was divided into two divisions. Periscope landed the honors in the first section, while Dark Flower won the second in straight heats. Kelly De Forest captured the 2:07 trot and Directum J took the 2:06 pace.

Norse Women Prove Real Wonders in Tennis Play

New York, July 9.—Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norse girl, has captured the national lawn tennis crown for her fourth successive year. In the tournament recently finished in Philadelphia she gained a firm hold on the crown.

Four years ago Miss Bjurstedt flashed across the horizon of American lawn tennis like a meteor, and since that time has vanquished all opponents.

The sensation of the present season, Mrs. Johan Rogge, also a native of the "Land of the Midnight Sun," was hailed as the successor of Miss Molla, but in the indoor tournaments she was easily defeated by Miss Bjurstedt.

This Day in Our History

THIS is the anniversary of the birth, in 1819, of Elias Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine. It was he who revolutionized sewing by hand, and after a long struggle he reaped the benefit of his work. At one time its royalties amounted to $200,000 a year.

The Hindering Helpmate

MAKES NO EFFORT OF PROGRESS

Beatrice Fairfax Warns All Wives and Husbands Not to Plod Along Without Self-Improvement

By Beatrice Fairfax

"THE main trouble in our married life was that my husband made no effort to progress after our marriage and was content to remain in a rut.

"I was filled with ambition to better myself in every way, had my voice cultivated and studied to improve my mind. I tried to persuade my husband to do the same thing, but he always refused."

A woman inside this secondary plea for divorce to Justice McAvoy in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn the other day—the main issue of the case rested on statutory grounds.

I wonder how many marriages have gone wrong from such differences!

One of the pair progresses, takes advantage of every jutting stone to climb the wall that separates the successful from the unsuccessful. The other hangs back, a dead weight on the hands of his more ambitious partner.

The hindering helpmeet is still going around on the same short chain forged by individual incompetence. Mental slackers of this type take the same immature view of things they took in early youth.

They dread a new idea as the aged dread a draught in the back. They have the same thoughts and — Heaven help us — the same old stories.

They never add to nor revise their point of view. They are a species of fixed star, but, alas, there is no glitter to them.

Alternatives of Partners

The ambitious partner is confronted by one of two alternatives. Either the mental sluggard must be left in his own tracks and the ambitious one must soar alone, thus giving up all idea of the companionship he hoped for in marriage. Or the aspiring helpmeet must give up his cherished dream of improvement and let opportunity pass him by in the rut.

It is the old parable of the millstone, and no one may swim against the current burdened by a millstone.

There is no more exacting problem than this among all the vexed problems of married life.

Shall the runner give up the race or lag behind to keep pace with a flaccid partner?

There have been instances in which the mentally stagnant one has been so deeply in love with the "live wire" of the combination that untold feats of industry have followed, and the tortoise has caught up with the hare, as in the old classic fable.

But, alas, this is not often true; the matrimonial tortoise is content to sit under its shell and watch the hare dash off and hear all about what happened when it returns. If the hare does return.

But frequently the hare remains with its own kind. It enjoys the stimulus of the race, of matching its wits and muscles with other hares, and she dull little tortoise waiting at home becomes less and less necessary to the happiness of the other.

If the tortoise loves the hare there is hard, gruelling work to be done and much burning of the midnight oil, for only loves work for work's sake and the other loves the worker.

Nevertheless this miracle has been wrought by reason of love, and it will continue to be wrought till the end of time.

Wives of Public Men

We come across this type frequently in the wives of public men. The bright young lawyer of the small town marries the school teacher, and the bright young lawyer goes ahead; he continues to improve, as Shakespeare has put it: "There is a tide in the affairs of men which taken at the flood leads on to fortune."

If the schoolteacher is wise she follows. She puts less embroidery on her children's clothes, fewer lace doilies of her own manufacture on the table, and she keeps pace with her husband in his reading, in his progress in his work.

The wise woman, these days, does not let her husband do all the thinking for the family. She was safe in doing that a generation or two ago, when clever women gladdened themselves out for unbecoming clothes and hairdressing that suggested a monkey-wrench, rather than a comb.

But today cleverness is applied to looking one's best as well as—and let the dull little wife remember this—"inspiring" clever men.

And the wife who is content to let her husband get his mental stimulus from another woman is playing a highly dangerous game with her own heartstrings.

Away From Home

No, she keeps pace, if she does not expect to be left behind—a once-loved tortoise now sitting under her shell and perhaps pensioned, but occupying no very vital position in the life of the forward rushing hare.

The tragic situation of one married partner visibly progressing while the other remains fixed is especially true these days of men who have entered the army and are now in France.

Tremendous things are happening to the soldier—he is helping to make history in a land rich in song and story. He is attending a great school, awe-inspiring sights greet him, and terrible experiences are his.

When he returns, he cannot open the book of life at the same pages he will have gone too far.

In the meantime what is the little woman, waiting at home, doing to keep pace with him?

Perhaps she does not even read a paper; she depends on father, brother or neighbor to tell her the news. She has the habit of having facts doled out to her—independent thought is beyond her. She is the tortoise, content to sit beneath its shell.

But it is time for the tortoise to rouse herself, learn something of this wonderful country in which her husband is fighting; let her learn something of its history, something of its language, if only a few words to greet him, when he returns.

Knit Two Socks at Once---Lesson No. 2

A Brand New "Siamese" Method for War Knitters Explained by Mrs. Evans Sewall of Washington—It Saves Time and Is More Accurate

IN a series of four illustrated lessons, Mrs. Evans Sewall, last Winter in charge of the Red Cross knitting rooms in Washington, D. C., explains how to knit two socks at once. The second lesson appears today. Do not fail to study the others tomorrow and Thursday.

The above picture shows the socks after they have reached the stage where the heel is turned. This looks as if there is but one sock. The other sock is on the inside. The heel has been turned by the Red Cross directions, only the number of stitches given in the directions have been doubled. The knitter now continues until she reaches the toe of the socks. Here the needles are taken out and the toes completed.

The actual combining of the two socks begins as shown above—this process not only saves more than one-third of one's time, but almost doubles the output of knitting socks. The knitter now picks up the alternate stitches from the outside and from the inside of the ribbed tops. First, you pick up a brown stitch and then a white stitch, or whatever the two color threads happen to be.

You now have forty stitches on each needle when you have completed picking up every alternate stitch, or 120 on the three. The first stitch must come from the outside and then the next stitch from the inside until there are forty stitches on each of the three needles instead of twenty stitches on each of the six.

The tops of the socks are now combined, and the knitter is ready to continue knitting in the same merry way as if but one sock was on the needles. The knitter must be careful in combining the tops of the socks.

In knitting there are two threads to handle. Take the thread attached to the outside top and purl. The next stitch is on the outside top, and you knit. Continue this until the sock is finished, following the Red Cross directions for the sock and doubling the number of stitches given in the Red Cross directions.

To some it is easier to give the direction: "Purl the thread to the front and knit the thread to the back."

By Marie Dunbar

YOU were told how to finish the tops of the Siamese socks in the first lesson yesterday. The magic process then starts.

The stitches are taken from the six needles and placed on three needles.

To do this pick up the alternate stitches from the outside and inside of the ribbed socks. In the picture Mrs. Sewall has used a brown and a white sock to make the directions easier—first a brown thread is picked up from the outside and then a white thread from the inside. This continues all around the sock until all the stitches are on the three needles instead of on six.

The knitter is now ready to proceed and knit two socks at the same time. The one puzzle that may bother the knitter now is what to do with the two threads. There are two threads to handle instead of one. You take the thread attached to the outside top and purl. Then you take the thread attached to the inside top and knit.

This process continues until the socks are finished.

Women in War Work

By Elizabeth Ellam

Special Agent, United States Employment Service, Department of Labor.

THE most recent call from Washington for 25,000 young women to enroll in the training schools of American hospitals, presents to the young womanhood of America, a splendid opportunity for service.

It is a call next in importance to that of actually getting into the trenches—and it is one that young women should not hesitate to respond to for a moment. The first training school for student nurses in connection with a base hospital has already opened. It is at Camp Devens, and the training schools that are subsequently to be opened, and for which this drive is immediate preparation, will be modeled upon the Camp Devens school.

There are two requirements. The first is that applicants must be between 18 and 35 years of age, and the second is that they must be unmarried. No married women are allowed in the government service as nurses.

This is well to remember, in order to save confusion and congestion, when the time for enrolling approaches. The date is set for July 29. In the meantime, the government will prepare the public for the drive, and the final work of making it an overwhelming success.

Why should not the young women rally to the call. Why should they need urging and pleading and talking to work them up to a pitch of patriotic fervor that may result in their enrolling for this service.

We have all witnessed the steady preparation that our boys have made. We have watched them calmly give up lucrative positions and professions to go to Plattsburg camps and work as they never worked before, for coveted posts in the designer line.

We have watched them march off to Southern camps, there to toil and work and drill for months at a time, in order to prepare themselves for special service. We have applauded and wept and kissed them as they went — and that's all that we have done.

We have not prepared ourselves for service by any extra study, any special courses or any hard work. We rather shrink from the hard work, anyway. It is because we do shrink, that the government, every once in a while, has to start a drive, to arouse interest in some desired occupation.

Women today who have much leisure, and who are planning to enroll in some form of war work will find greater opportunities opening up for them if they have a knowledge of French. And yet how many women that you know have made French a definite and persistent study during the past year?

For example—the government has sent out frequent calls for telephone units to go overseas—and one of the requirements has been that the women enrolling must be able to read, write and speak French, as well as to be efficient telephone operators.

The Y. W. C. A. has called a number of young women into the field for war work abroad, and they, too, require that each applicant be able to speak French. A knowledge of French will equip an applicant for work with the Department of Justice, the Secret Service, or the Bureau of Censorship, at least it will give her a chance at a much better position.

Miss A. M. of Roslindale, whose letter regarding railroad schools and school of telegraphy has reached me, send a stamped addressed envelope in for personal reply? Only in this manner am I able to furnish those addresses.

Miss Katherine L. V. of Quincy has written asking me for addresses of "plants doing war work." These are addresses that are not permitted in this column. There is too much danger of "giving aid and comfort to the enemy." If you are seeking employment in a munitions plant, apply to the United States Employment Service at No. 135 Federal street, or to the State Free Employment Bureau at No. 8 Kneeland street.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Not Improper

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am eighteen and have been going about with a doctor of twenty-one for three years.

Six months ago his parents moved out of town. Before his mother left she made me promise that I would spend my vacation at her home.

My sweetheart is now in the service and is stationed in his home town. I am anxious to go there, but my mother objects very strenuously, stating it is entirely improper.

HELEN.

I AM not very fond of "taking sides" in a disagreement between mother and daughter. But this time, in her desire to have you do absolutely "the proper thing," your mother is making a little mistake. There is no reason at all why, at the invitation of his mother, you should not visit your friend's family. And since your young doctor is in the army and stationed in his home town, a visit to his mother gives you a particularly pleasant and eminently correct way of seeing him again.

Newspapers, Magazines.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man and do not have much time for reading, as I want to be able to keep up with and be able to talk on current events intelligently. Will you kindly suggest what I shall read?

SAM.

ONE look at the newsstands nowadays, and the question becomes, not what shall you read, but what dare you omit reading? The editorials in the newspapers are an education in themselves, and if you add a monthly magazine of the "review" type and one or two of the good weeklies you will get plenty of material for conversation. Read as you travel to and from work, give an hour before you go to bed at night and two hours or so every Sunday to your pursuit of information, and you will discover that your lack of time is a myth.

Cecilia of the Pink Roses

Released by Select Pictures Corporation

This Absorbing Story Will Be Told in Motion Pictures at Modern and Beacon Theatres Week of July 15

By Ann Lisle

(Novelized from the motion picture drama "Cecilia of the Pink Roses," directed by Julius Steger, produced by the Marion Davies Film Company, Inc., from the book by Catherine Hoviland Taylor. Copyright, 1917, by George H. Doran Company.)

(Copyright, 1918, Marion Davies Film Co., Inc.)

MRS. DE PUT spoke of the opera, a recent exhibition of water colors, the latest political review and kindred subjects a world away from the new pupil.

Fingers of sunlight sailed across the floor. They looked cold and pale to Cecilia. "It wasn't as bad as this back in the flat," thought the little girl to herself. "Oh, mother, I wonder if you'd ask me to bear it?"

The Irish are something like the Old Guard—they die, but they never surrender. Cecilia Evangeline Agnes Madden was a shade more Irish than her name and no whit less Irish than her red gold hair and the blue eyes set in with wistful black shadows.

At the end of a month she had discarded her beautiful rhinestone hairpins, her French heeled green satin slippers and her most violently striped and dotted frocks. She had not acquired a real admiration for the smocks and tam-o'-shanters and rubber soled tennis shoes which Gertrude Van Dorn and Annette Twombly affected.

Mrs. De Put gave her little pupil to understand that it was rather difficult for her to have such a foreign element in the school. Cecilia had already had the difficulty was not all Mrs. De Put's, and she protested vigorously that she was as American as the next one.

"Very well, my dear—I understand that some of our idioms are still strange to you, and I shall not lay too much stress on current methods of expression. But I beg of you to desist from the use of such words as 'elegant,' 'refined' and 'grand.' Such words, my dear, are not used—are not used by people of culture."

Cecilia nodded. Words were impossible for her just then—even other words than those which had last been forbidden her. The little girl climbed to her lonely room. Annette Twombly and Gertrude Van Dorn shared a wonderful big corner room, but no one else had a room mate or a chum. Cecilia felt suddenly that she was the only lonely girl in the school—perhaps the only lonely person in the world.

And then she remembered that she had the memory of her mother and the Madden one-quarter inch pieces. Blanch six minutes, cold dip, to remove surface moisture. Dry as mentioned above.

And then she remembered that she had the memory of her mother and the Madden one-quarter inch pieces. She called to them—and almost as if they wanted her to have a real answer, there came a knock at the door, and the crisp maid presented a silver tray with two letters on it.

"Mrs. De Put said they were for you—and Miss Van Dorn told me to bring them up and say we couldn't have them on the hall table—that pencil mark is out. "How much will it cost?" he asked the dentist. "Five shillings," was the reply. "And if I have six it won't hurt me?" he anxiously asked. The dentist shook his head. "No," he said, "you will be quite unconscious." Putting his hand in his pocket he quietly brought out a handful of money. "Oh," said the dentist very politely, "there's no need to pay until after it is out!" The other looked at him amusedly. "I wasna' going to pay," he said, "I was just going to count ma money!"

Cecilia sat up and smiles flickered out through the tears. Annette Twombly grasped at the girl's sheer beauty—most people were frights after they had cried.

"I want you to come, dear—I think we'll be friends," said Annette, swayed by a warm, generous impulse, foreign to her conventional, what-will-they-say, timid soul.

After she was gone Cecilia knelt by her bed and covered moist yet glowing eyes with trembling hands. "Lord, thank You ever so much!" she whispered. "I guess You did notice how lonely I was. Please let Annette and me be very good friends, and make the other girls like me, too!"

HOW TO DRY PEAS

By Ellen I. Kelley

Director, Department of Household Science, National War Garden Commission

OF all our common garden vegetables there is none more popular for Winter and Summer use than peas. Also they are of much nutritive value and may be counted upon, when stored for the future, to supplement the meat supply. They may be dried readily and inexpensively. The free drying manual which the National War Garden Commission, Washington, will send you upon request gives detailed directions for drying fruits and vegetables. Inclose 1-three-cent stamp to cover postage.

Garden peas, which have a non-edible pod, should be shelled, and without washing first, blanched three to five minutes, according to size and maturity. Full grown peas are prime for drying.

After blanching cold dip, drain and remove surface moisture by gently pressing between clean towels. Spread in single layers on trays or boards with thin muslin or paper underneath.

Drying time is between three and four hours. Peas require care in drying. Start at 110 degrees and raise temperature slowly, in about one and one-half hours to 145 degrees F. Avoid overheating.

For use in soups or puree, shell mature peas, pass them through a meat grinder and spread the pulp on platters of table oilcloth.

With young, tender sugar peas, use the pod also. After washing, cut into one-quarter inch pieces. Blanch six minutes, cold dip, to remove surface moisture. Dry as mentioned above.

A Scotch Anecdote

A Scotsman in London who had been suffering for some time with toothache made up his mind to have the tooth out. "How much will it cost?" he asked the dentist. "Five shillings," was the reply. "And if I have six it won't hurt me?" he anxiously asked. The dentist shook his head. "No," he said, "you will be quite unconscious." Putting his hand in his pocket he quietly brought out a handful of money. "Oh," said the dentist very politely, "there's no need to pay until after it is out!" The other looked at him amusedly. "I wasna' going to pay," he said, "I was just going to count ma money!"

Dogs on the Battlefield

Experiments made in the training of dogs as messengers with the armies in the field have, it is said, given satisfactory results. The dogs which have proved most receptive under instruction are chiefly half-bred collies and retrievers. A rather poor breed of bob-tailed sheepdogs has also done well. All have been trained to perform their errands during heavy firing, both rifles and guns. They can be fired over as easily as do ordinary sporting dog, and, what is quite another thing, they will face fire at close range. Many have shown amazing skill in getting over, under and through all sorts of obstacles, including wire.

A Single Application Will Banish Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive. With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs; apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

GREAT DEMAND FOR GOOD MILKERS

By THOMAS F. PHELAN,
United States Farm Labor Agent.

There is a dearth of experienced milkers. Farmers in all sections of the State are unable to hire them. As soon as one shows up at the AMERICAN Farm Labor Bureau at the United States Employment Service, No. 53 Canal street, Boston, he is regarded as a great find and hired on the spot. It appears that those who formerly did that sort of work are "over there" fighting for Uncle Sam. One farmer told the AMERICAN that he is compelled to milk fifty cows and puts in sixteen hours a day doing so. He says he can't stand it much longer.

The scarcity of milkers is causing uneasiness in farming circles. It has been suggested that some patriotic citizen, who wants to keep the food moving "over there" to the soldiers, volunteer to put a herd of cows on Boston Common, get an experienced milker to form milking classes, and teach the hundreds of young men who are daily applying for farm work how to milk a cow. This is one solution of the milking problem. Young men are quick to learn.

There are different ways of showing one's patriotism. One of the easiest is the wearing of a uniform, for the khaki or navy blue makes it patent to all who see the wearer that he is in the country's service.

But the country needs more than fighters. It needs men for the industrial army, and it especially needs men for the unskilled works in the shipyards, munition plants, and other war industries and farms. Today the man who volunteers for pick-and-shovel work in an essential industry, or who hires out for farm work, is as much a patriot as the man who volunteers for the army. Perhaps, in the last analysis, he is more so, for he gets no public glory and only hard work.

But the man who volunteers to place a herd of cows on Boston Common and hires an experienced milker to teach young America how to milk will receive more glory from it than the man who runs up to the cannon's mouth. His name and fame will live for time immemorial. The farmers will rise up and call him blessed.

Two responsible married couples are wanted in Wayland for farm work. Each couple will be provided with a house, meals and $60 a month. It's the chance of a lifetime for those who mean business. Applicants should apply in person to superintendent W. H. Burke of the Federal Employment Service, No. 53 Canal street.

There is an unusual demand for farm help at the Canal street office. Farmers are there every day this week and will hire men on the spot. Letter writers are not wanted. Those seeking employment must apply in person. Farmers say they want to see who they are hiring. They say the day of buying a pig in a bag is gone.

Crowds flocked to the Canal street office yesterday. At one time long lines of men extended into the street. It was figured that at least 1,200 unemployed men called during the day.

AUTOISTS ARE URGED TO SAVE GASOLINE

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

In a recent discussion of the gasoline situation with some of the prominent auto dealers, the consensus of opinion was that there was no cause for alarm if the public used common sense in the operation of cars. W. H. Gleason, the local Dort distributor, says:

"One more false alarm has received an official quietus in the statement issued by the United States Fuel Commission on the subject of gasoline.

"Mark L. Requa, director of the oil division, says that there has been plenty of gasoline for all requirements and will continue to be enough for normal purposes, providing it is not wasted.

"Mr. Requa makes a few timely suggestions worth repeating and remembering:

"Do not use gasoline for cleaning parts. Studiously avoid spilling, leakage and evaporation. Do not let engine run when car is standing. Have carburetor adjusted to give largest possible mileage per gallon. Adjust brakebands so that they do not drag; keep all bearings well lubricated and tires fully inflated. Keep spark plugs clean, have ignition correctly timed and drive with spark well advanced.

"Do not accelerate and stop quickly; avoid high speed; stop engine and coast long hills. Avoid aimless and unnecessary use of cars; do a number of errands in one trip; carry purchases home in the car to reduce deliveries by stores, and combine with neighbors and friends in use of cars."

MOTHER SAYS SON WOULD "RATHER D— THAN WORK"

New York, July 8.—An anonymous communication to the police led to the arraignment in Yorkville court here of Oscar Walters, twenty-nine, on the charge of violating the Compulsory Employment law. His mother told Magistrate McGeehan that her son had told her that he would "rather die than work." Magistrate McGeehan held Walters in $500 bail for trial in Special Sessions.

SWIFT & COMPANY U.S.A.

Meat Must Be Sold

Fresh meat is perishable. It must be sold within about two weeks for whatever it will bring.

A certain amount of beef is frozen for foreign shipment, but domestic markets demand fresh, chilled, unfrozen beef.

Swift & Company cannot increase prices by withholding meat, because it will not keep fresh and salable for more than a few days after it reaches the market.

Swift & Company cannot tell at the time of purchasing cattle, what price fresh meat will bring when put on sale. If between purchase and sale, market conditions change, the price of meat must also change.

The Food Administration limits our profit to 9 per cent on capital invested in the meat departments. This is about 2 cents per dollar of sales. No profit is guaranteed, and the risk of loss is not eliminated.

As a matter of fact, meat is often sold at a loss because of the need of selling it before it spoils.

FRITZI SCHEFF HEADS BILL AT KEITH'S

Fritzi Scheff, the charming prima donna of many musical plays, heads the bill at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week, and proved yesterday that she holds the same warm place in the hearts of Bostonians that she has always held. Her repertoire, composed largely of the selections in which Boston has heard her before and which are most popular in this city, offers pieces of considerable variety and of a nature to give full scope to her talents. Her costume is by no means the least striking feature of her act, which was enthusiastically received.

Johnny Dooley is here again, too—probably for the last time before he goes to war. His comedy is always refreshing and enjoyable, and the stunts he performs in his present offering show him at his best. It is original and distinctive, from the standpoint of criticism, and as a matter of entertainment, a scream from start to finish.

Another comedy act of merit is that presented by Charles De Haven and Freddie Nice, who introduce plenty of "nut" stunts, a most effective feature of which consists in "jazzing" Svengali and Trilby. Comedy of still another variety is offered in Emmet Devoy's sketch, "Too Many Wives," a farce that is funny from the time the curtain rises until it falls. In this delectable bit Dr. Devoy is assisted by a highly competent company, among the members of which Miss Daryl Goodwin and Miss Jean Thomas deserve special commendation.

De Leon and Davies, in a comedy sketch that has a war setting involving a soldier and his "godmother" in Paris, were one of the real hits of an exceptionally good bill. The Seven Bracks, in a rapid-fire acrobatic act, were also welcomed with hearty and applause. They offer about the speediest act of the kind in vaudeville.

The Shirley Sisters, in dances and clever dances; Hazel Moran, in a Wild West lariat act, and William Eglinetta, with his posing horse and dogs, complete the vaudeville bill, and the Hearst-Pathe News Film shows parts of news in pictures from the battlefront and from American cities where the "win the war" spirit is uppermost.

GLOBE THEATRE—Another of the big film bills enlisting a trinity of the leading stars of the motion picture was shown at the Globe Theatre, the program remaining unchanged throughout the week. Theda Bara, the acknowledged leader in the impersonation of vampire roles, is shown in the William Fox production, "A Fool There Was," with story founded upon the poem of the human vampire by Kipling. Majority of opinion pronounces this the most powerful portrayal of Miss Bara's. William S. Hart was shown pictured as the outlaw of the plains in "Wolves of the Rail," and Charlie Chaplin was shown in the busy contretemps of "The Fireman."

BEACON AND MODERN THEATRES—Uncle Tom's Cabin" in film form with Marguerite Clark as the featured player was given its first Boston showing at the Beacon and Modern Theatres. This story has preserved the simple pathos, humor and dramatic worlds in the length of its life of appeal, and it must be confessed in all sincerity that there is a consuming potency withholding it in its newer form. Miss Clark, as Topsy, gave a sprightliness to the girl who "never was borned but just growed up," and as Eva she revealed the engaging charm of her personality and acting gifts which have won her so great an acclaim as she now enjoys. It is a notable production meritoriously acted. The companion photoplay was "The Service Star," picturing Madge Kennedy. Short comedies and World Weekly pictures were also on the bill.

PARAGON PARK—The open air circus at Paragon contains more daring acts than ever before, while the cabaret entertainment continues to excel anything ever offered in this part of the country.

NORUMBEGA PARK—If you think that George M. Cohan cannot be outdone, go out to Norumbega Park this week and see Robert Brister in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," an enjoyable a farce and mystery story as was ever concocted or acted. There is never a dull moment from start to finish, and seldom has this popular play been better done.

PARK THEATRE — The bill this week at the Park Theatre is headed by Viola Dana, the dainty little Metro star, in one of her masterpieces, "Opportunity," a rare offering, which was scenarioized and directed by John H. Collins and abounds in many situations and romance of the original sort. Following on the program is the famous pair of Keiffes, James and Katherine Lee, the Fox Baby Grands, in their latest six-act production, "Are You Worthy?" which shows the little stars as a self-constituted committee to choose a husband for their wealthy aunt, with whom they live.

FENWAY THEATRE — Patrons of the Fenway Theatre showed unusual appreciation of the bill last night, with Pauline Frederick featured in her latest production, "Her Final Reckoning," a picture peculiarly adapted to Miss Frederick's talents.

ORPHEUM HAS A SNAPPY BILL

Variety, snappiness and worth marked the vaudeville and film programs offered at Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday. There were no announced headliners, but it appeared as though most of the acts had conspired for the honor, so pleasing were each of them.

Fraser, Bunce and Harding presented a lively comedy and singing act which they titled "Who's Who?" with the auditor not caring which because each did his part in amusing. Riggs and Ryan presented a clever singing and dancing skit, "Disturbing the Peace," which was not a misnomer in that it aroused the audience to bursts of applause.

Gertrude Arden and her company presented a gripping little comedy drama, "The Other Witness."

Other acts included Gertrude Rose, a dainty singer of topical songs and new song successes; White and West in songs, dances and comedy, and the Two Hayatakas, in a sensational equilibristic exhibition.

On the screen there were shown the latest news pictorial, Fatty Arbuckle in his new comedy, "Good Night Nurse," and the photoplay, "Shark Monroe," picturing William S. Hart as the ferocious master of a Pacific sealing schooner.

CODMAN SQUARE THEATRE — A pleasurable bill in point of variety and excellence was offered at the Codman Square Theatre, Dorchester, yesterday. Alla Maskova and her company of dancers presented a dancing specialty in a beautiful scenic setting and with a number of dashing colored costumes. Others on the bill included Jay Raymond, the well-known comedian; Finlay and Burke, musical comedy players in a representative offering, and Drawee, Frisco and Hambo, in a comedy juggling act.

COLUMBIA THEATRE — An excellent all-photoplay bill was offered at Loew's Columbia Theatre yesterday. In "Mile-a-Minute Kendall," Jack Pickford was shown as the son of wealth with income cut off because of his speedy habits. Set down in a country town, he turns his attention to making money through an automobile invention, helped by the affections of a girl who keeps him to the good path. He succeeds, is forgiven by his father, and marries the girl. The other photoplay is a story of the present war and exciting revelations of German spy methods, "The Kaiser's Shadow," with Dorothy Dalton in the leading role.

LANCASTER THEATRE—Yesterday at the Lancaster Theatre there was shown a brace of photoplays, which afforded a wealth of entertainment. In the William Fox production, "Ace High," Tom Mix was shown as a young westerner in a series of adventures which were both thrilling and humorous. Harold Lockwood was shown as the star in "Land Of Your Name," a play of mystery and adventure.

Plays That Remain

WILBUR THEATRE—William Rock and Frances White, at Ye Wilbur Theatre continue to be welcomed by large audiences at every performance. Although it was the beginning of their fifth week of great popularity in Boston, last night's audience bordered on the capacity mark.

COPLEY THEATRE — "Inside the Lines" began another week at the Copley Theatre last evening. This is its ninth week, including the run earlier in this season. It is filled with vigorous scenes intermingled with plenty of dialogue, and the central character of the "hero masquerading as a German spy is a striking figure that holds the continuous attention of the audience.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—"Hearts of the World," D. W. Griffith's most stupendous achievement, continues its triumphant run at the Majestic Theatre.

TREMONT TEMPLE—The moving picture version of "My Four Years in Germany," the book of Ambassador Gerard, written shortly after his return from Berlin, was shown before a packed house last night at Tremont Temple, notwithstanding the fact that this is the start of the thirteenth big week.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN JULY 9, 1918. BOSTON.

Mr. Storrow and the Coal Situation

Furnishes Example of Old-Fashioned, Reactionary Nonsense in His Stand Against Cities Buying Fuel for Emergencies

One of the penalties which we pay in putting men like Mr. James J. Storrow into important places is well illustrated by the following conversation which Mr. John T. Lambert, the political editor of the AMERICAN, had with Mr. Storrow quite recently.

Mr. Storrow is, as we all know, the Fuel Administrator both for Massachusetts as State Administrator and for New England as Federal Administrator. Mr. Storrow is an industrious, patriotic, earnest, honest man who does his public duty as it is given him to see his duty. The AMERICAN has often had occasion to praise him for public service and to support him for important public office. But there comes a time when the more consciously honest a man is, the more obstinate he will be against the public interest if he happens to have a pre-conceived prejudice which lies athwart progress.

Mr. Storrow in a general conversation had remarked that one of the difficulties in the present coal shortage was that small coal dealers, on account of insufficient capital, would be unable to obtain large quantities of coal as a reserve, even though it were obtainable. Thereupon, Mr. Lambert asked Mr. Storrow why these cities and towns ought not to establish coal pockets.

Let the AMERICAN remind the people that the Supreme Court, by a majority of one vote, decided most absurdly that the cities and towns had no power to buy coal to aid themselves in great crises. The people, however, have corrected that bad decision by a constitutional amendment which they adopted last year, drawn for them by the Constitutional Convention, and the Legislature in pursuance of the power given it by this amendment has passed a law under which the cities and towns are enabled to provide necessaries in times of emergency.

When Mr. Lambert suggested that the way to meet the difficulty which Mr. Storrow raised was to have the cities and towns take advantage of the new law, Mr. Storrow replied very hastily and emphatically that this would be a bad plan, because, forsooth, it would destroy the initiative of the business man!

If there is a better example of old-fashioned, stuck-in-the-mud, reactionary nonsense than this, the AMERICAN would like to have some of its readers give us an instance.

It is fortunate, however, that the cities and towns are not obliged to take Mr. Storrow's viewpoint, but it would be still more fortunate if Mr. Storrow had the right point of view, for his important position could lead the cities and towns in the right direction. It is unfortunate for Mr. Storrow that his shortsighted vision and his narrow prejudices prevent him from being the leader which his industry and his honesty and his good intentions would otherwise enable him to be.

We ought to be on our guard against putting too many Mr. Storrows into the strategic positions along the line of our social and political battle front. The name of progressive men, with capacity equal to Mr. Storrow's, is legion. We should select our public leaders from among such men, especially for places where their general political, economic and social point of view means a great deal in the inefficiency of their leadership.

Attorney-General Attwill

The AMERICAN regrets that Attorney-General Attwill will have opposition to a renomination in the Republican party.

A man more independent of anti-public influences of all sorts than Mr. Attwill it would be difficult to find in the Republican ranks.

This is not to say that such a man cannot be found in the Democratic ranks—but they are rare even there.

Mr. Allen has rendered a great, a very great public service in the investigation of the fish trust, and is entitled to his reward. But we hope not at the expense of Mr. Attwill.

LET THE CHILDREN ALONE

You do your children an injustice when you refuse to listen to points of reasoning which they advance.

You cannot expect to do all the thinking for your children.

They must begin to use their own mental powers if they are ever to develop in a broad and noble men and women.

If you deprive your children of the enjoyment of their own opinions or do not at least give them a chance to prove that their contention is correct, you will antagonize their little minds and weaken their characters.

The wise parent listens thoughtfully and considerately, and if the youngsters be wrong, in the parent's estimation, it is up to the parent to endeavor to persuade him of his error, but not to force an acknowledgment of error before the child is convinced.

Permit the children to give utterance freely to their thoughts, whether they coincide with what you think or not. How can you know how to correct false impressions if you do not find out what is going on in the little mind?

Encourage them to discuss whatever interests them.

This will not only be instructive to the youngsters, talking it over with father and mother, but you will learn a lot yourself.

Urgent Need of Tin Drives United States to Prospecting — Geological Survey Rediscovers Abandoned Deposits on the Blue Ridge Mountains in Virginia—Metal Generally Used as an Alloy or Amalgam—"Ghost of Tin" Only on Household "Tinware"

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE United States Geological Survey is looking for tin, and has found some promising deposits of "tinstone," or tin ore (cassiterite) on the Blue Ridge Mountains, in Rockbridge County, Virginia. These deposits, which are found in quartz veins cutting a peculiar granite rock, have been known for many years, but it seems that they have never been effectively worked, probably because it was, upon the whole, easier to import tin. But in the world war every nation has to look out for its own supplies of essential things, and just now there is an urgent need of tin for the maintenance of our military power. And, needing it, we are finding it.

Typical American Way

There is no boastfulness, but simple historical truth in the statement that that is the typical American way. Over and over again in the past history of this country we have been able, when a pressure of necessity arose, to put our hands into the exhaustless pockets of the continent and draw out what we wanted.

Tin comes before iron in human history. It enabled the people of the Stone Age to advance into the Bronze Age, the immediate predecessor of the Iron Age (which may be said to still continue). Bronze is an alloy of copper and tin. Copper was at first used alone in making metal tools and weapons, but it was too soft to serve the purpose well, and could never have given its name to an era of human progress.

Then some prehistoric genius discovered that tin mixed with copper produced a metal harder than either and admirably suited for being wrought into swords, spears, shields, knives, axes, breastplates, helmets, vessels, statues and lasting works of art. Of course, the many uses of bronze were not all evolved at once, but were gradually developed.

First came the things required by the fighters, the hewers and the diggers. But the artists soon saw the possibilities of the new metal, and eventually they developed with its aid a great advance of art, which had an immense influence upon the civilization of mankind.

The ancients had legends of the "Tin Islands," which they thought lay out in the Atlantic, somewhere near the west coasts of Europe. But the tin supposed to come from these imaginary islands probably had its real origin in northwestern Spain and in that part of England called Cornwall, which has for many centuries been one of the world's greatest sources of tin, though of late it has diminished in richness.

Saxony and Bohemia formerly had large deposits of tin ore, which have now been to a great extent exhausted. The Straits Settlements in the Malay Peninsula and the Islands of Banka and Billiton in the Dutch East Indies are at present among the principal sources of tin.

It is also found in Bolivia, where it has the peculiarity of occurring with silver ore. It has also been found in grains mingled with gold and silver ores in Guiana and Siberia. In the early part of the twentieth century the world's annual production of tin rose to its highest point, between 80,000 and 100,000 tons.

As the supply has decreased in old deposits a change has been necessary in the methods of getting out the tin. Formerly it was largely drawn from alluvial deposits in the form of "stream tin," which consists of grains and small lumps that have been water-rolled, and mingled with sand and gravel. With the exhaustion of this source of supply recourse has been had to mining, the lodes of tin being followed in the rock by blasting, and the tinstone being broken up and crushed to get out the metal.

Used as an Alloy

As tin began its career in the service of man in the self-effacing form of an alloy, so it has to a very large degree continued to the present time. Probably most of the tin now produced is employed in making bronze, pewter, etc. Still, what is called "commercially pure" tin is familiar to everybody in the form of tinfoil. This has the valuable properties of flexibility and resistance to tarnish. When used to make an amalgam with mercury as a backing for mirrors, tin has to be mingled with a little of its ancient comrade, copper; but for ordinary tinfoil the metal is first rolled out in thin sheets and then beaten with mallets.

It is but a kind of ghost of tin that we see shining on the roofs of newly covered houses and glaring in the noon sunshine when workmen assemble for a hastily snatched dinner. A "tin pail" or a "tin roof" consists of iron or steel or steel plate covered over with a film of tin.

American Boys, Hello!

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company.

OH, we love all the French, and we speak in French,
As along through France we go.
But the moments to us that are keen and sweet
Are the ones when our khaki boys we meet,
Stalwart and handsome and trim and neat,
And we call to them, "Boys, hello!
Hello! American boys,
Luck to you and life's best joys,
American boys, hello!"

We couldn't do that if we were at home—
It would never do, you know!
For there you must wait till you know who's who,
And to meet in the way that nice folks do.
Though you knew his name and your name he knew,
You never would say, "Hello! Hello! American boy,"
But here it's just a joy
As we pass along in the stranger throng, to call out, "Boys, hello!"

For each is a brother away from home.
And this we are sure is so,
There's a lonesome spot in his heart somewhere,
And we want him to feel there are friends right there
In this foreign land, and so we dare
To call out, "Boys, hello!
Hello! American boys! Luck to you and life's best joys!
American boys, hello!"

MUCH HUMAN NATURE IN FORTUNE TELLING

By Winifred Black

THE other day I went to a charity fete, and there one of my friends was telling fortunes. She told them rather well, I must say, even if she is a friend of mine. I have always suspected her of seeing a good deal farther with those clear eyes of hers than she sometimes lets us suspect.

She had a lovely time telling fortunes. I heard her tell a poor little tired woman that she wasn't going to be tired very much longer, that something very nice was going to happen to her, and the little woman's eyes lit up, and she didn't look tired a bit, and it rested her just to think of it.

And then the fortune teller told a woman with tired lines around her eyes that the one she loved was going to get well, and the one she worried over was all right.

Then she told a big, prosperous man that he was going to lose some money, and that he was going to be glad of it because it would give him a chance to go fishing, and he didn't seem a bit downhearted over it either.

Sowing Strange Seeds

She told all the girls that they were going to be married once, and be divinely happy; she told the middle-aged women that they were going to be married twice, and none of them looked very sad about it, even though to her certain knowledge some of their husbands were enjoying the best of health.

To all the elderly women she brought money and great honors for their children, and to the middle-aged men she brought success in business, the building of a home and partner who'd bear watching. It was the funniest thing in the world to see the look of suspicion creep over their open, honest faces when the poor business men heard about that peculiar partner. I really think that was too bad of the fortune teller. I am afraid the partners are having a bad time of it, being watched right now.

Human, After All?

But there was one fortune she told that surprised me. The woman to whom she told it followed her from one end of the garden to the other, insisting, demanding and begging, and almost threatening, for my friend to tell her fortune—for my friend the fortune teller was tired, and had other things to do, and didn't want to tell any more that day, but the woman was so persistent that she consented. She took the woman's hand in hers and just as she was going to tell the fortune some woman in the crowd spoke to her and she nodded and smiled.

The woman who wanted her fortune told snatched her hand away. "I don't want you to look at other people when you are talking to me. I have paid my money for the charity and I want my fortune." And my friend the fortune teller told the lady that she was quick tempered, bad mannered, not generous, grasping and selfish, and she predicted a lonely, loveless old age, and all the people who stood around gazed at each other in amazement, for they could all see as plainly as the fortune teller could that every word she said was true, but they wondered why she told it in such a public place.

I wondered, too, and yet somehow—I am now wondering whether what the fortune teller said had the least effect and whether the woman who heard all these things about herself has guessed just exactly why she heard them.

Fortune tellers appear to be human beings, after all.

U. S. IS READY TO RECLAIM BLINDED HEROES

(By Request)

PREPARATIONS under the direction of the United States army authorities to care for all American soldiers and sailors who will be blinded in the war have been completed.

"It is a long remove from the days of old when soldiers blinded in the wars banded together, by grace of the State, and trailed their common misery with loud cries for alms along the country roads and became objects of terror as well as of pity to the rustics of the villages of France, or frequented as individual beggars, with Lazaruses in every condition and stage of deformity and disease, the shrines of famous pilgrimages," commented a high officer discussing the new project.

"One of the obvious imperative obligations imposed upon the State by the present world conflict of peoples—as distinct from former personal wars of potentates in which the sole function of the peoples was to do and die—is the rehabilitation and after-care of mutilated and blinded warriors. And every American will rejoice that it was one of the first duties that occupied the attention of our government when the United States entered the lists on the side of the entente allies."

First Training

The plan of the government, which will be carried out under the direct supervision of Colonel James Bordley of the Surgeon-General's Department, is to bring the American blinded soldiers and sailors to this country as soon as possible after they are blinded. They will then be re-educated on the beautiful ninety-acre estate of Mrs. T. Harrison Garrett of Baltimore, which has been donated for this purpose and refitted to represent a complete training school, including workrooms, gymnasium, swimming pool and the necessary recreation equipment.

The blinded soldiers will undergo a course of careful and wise training along the lines which have been eminently successful at St. Dunstan's Hostel for the Blind in London, and at various institutions of the American-British-French-Belgian Permanent Blind Relief War Fund in France, so as to fit them to earn their own living as private citizens at some lucrative trade. This training will embrace all the trades and professions to which experience has shown blind persons are adapted, such as broom, mat, mattress and basket-making; rug and carpet weaving, telephone and telegraph operation, including wireless, and piano tuning. Special attention will be given also to recreation, both indoor and outdoor, which is of vast importance in building up the shattered morale of the blinded men.

Institute's Work

The work of the Institute for the Blind will consist of equipping the blinded soldiers with tools and materials to carry on the trades they have mastered, establishing labor exchanges for the marketing of their products, and giving the proper supervision to maintain a standard of excellency in the goods they manufacture. The scope of the work is vast and includes also the looking after the families of the blinded soldiers as far as necessary. It is one of the many reconstructive plans inaugurated as a war measure, which will result in permanent and far-reaching benefit, not alone to the battle-blinded, but to the great number of those who have suffered this affliction through other causes as well.

THE SWINGING TARGET EASY TO HIT

It is a strange thing that the novice will almost invariably try to hit the bull's-eye of a swinging target when it is at the centre or in the lowest position, comments the Popular Science Monthly for July. The expert knows better. He knows that the time to shoot is at the end of the swing. In fact, anyone will arrive ultimately at the conclusion, for a little though will convince him that a target is the more easily hit when at a standstill, or at the end of a vibration.

The moving target as a rule has the largest bull's-eye, and is often one of the easiest to strike, if you happen to know how.

Simply aim at the point where the centre of the target stops and wait till it returns. Then, bing! Your friend gives one of those sickly smiles and pays for the shot. Then he wastes another quarter trying to do something that he does not comprehend. "Simple, if you only know how."—Harold C. Ridgely.
